CHAMBERLAIN WELCOMED BY HITLER

George Has Lead, Talmadge Second In Georgia Test

Camp, Roosevelt Man, Trails in Significant Primary; Concedes Defeat as Two Show Safe Lead

Others Named

Ten Representatives Are Chosen, Four of Them Unopposed in Milder Contests

Atlanta, Sept. 15 (AP)—Senator Walter F. George, whose retirement was asked by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, held an increasing lead for renomination as additional unofficial returns came in today from the Georgia Democratic primary.

Former Governor Eugene Talmadge, New Deal critic, ran second and New Dealer Lawrence S. Camp, endorsed by the President for the senate was last in the Wednesday balloting.

Camp conceded defeat last night

Senator George was leading in 78 counties with 222 unit votes. Fifty-six of them, with 152 unit votes, were complete. In 15 of the 26 additional counties, with 46 unit votes, only one precinct was missing in each.

There are a total of 410 unit votes in Georgia, 206 being necessary to establish a winner in this race.

Talmadge was ahead in 72 counties with 160 unit votes. Of this number, complete returns were in from 35 counties which lacked only one precinct each of completion. These 19 counties had 42 unit votes.

In the Camp column were nine counties totalling 28 unit votes. Five were complete and he was ahead in another county with two unit votes in which only one precinct was missing.

With 1,735 precincts in the state reporting, George's popular vote was 123,403; Camp's 66,405 and Talmadge's 89,174.

The total popular vote in the senate race was 278,982, or 64 08 per cent of the state registration.

Governor E. D. Rivers, seeking renomination to "complete" a little New Deal program, was leading in 95 counties with 264 unit votes.

Hugh Howell, former Democratic state chairman, was second in the gubernatorial race with 144 unit votes in 63 counties

Popular returns for governor were Rivers 139,496; Howell, 115,570; John I. Mangham .15,-368 and Robert F. Wood 1,528.

Camp offered congratulations to "the successful candidate" last night without naming him, adding "I regret that the fight has not succeeded at this time, but it is a fight that must win in the end."

Under party rules official returns were to be tabulated and announced at county seats today.

The state also elected 10 congressmen, four of them unopposed, state house and various other officers, but the senatorial fight, with its New Deal issue highlighted the primary campaign.

Collins Held For Grand Jury

Daniel Collins, 49, of 226 Wall street was arraigned this morning before Justice of the Peace Baxter of town of Rosendale on a charge of burglary, second degree. He was charged with having entered three places at Rosendale Wednesday and taking $75 from Abram Kelder's Hotel cash register.

Collins waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury. He was brought back to jail.

Early Wednesday morning it was discovered the Kelder's Hotel, Vaughan's Drug Store and the Schryver Lumber yard at Rosendale had all been entered. Sheriff Molyneaux, Deputy Brown and State Tropers Reilly and Sickles began an investigation and found Collins under the influence of intoxicants a short distance from the hotel asleep. From the hotel a quart bottle of whiskey was also reported missing.

Collins was arrested and brought to jail on a charge of entering the places and this morning was taken out for arraignment by Trooper Reilly and Deputy Brown.

When Collins was arrested the officers found $74.20 on his person, about $20 of it being in small change.

Hat Plant Case Delays Opening Of Wallkill Plant

Adjourn Meeting Until Next Tuesday to Give Opportunity to Examine Report of Accountants

No action was taken Wednesday before Referee Walter J. Miller toward re-opening the closed Wallkill Manufacturing Company plant at Wallkill where up until about a year ago some 400 people were employed in the manufacture of hats.

Mr. Miller, before whom an order to show cause was returnable Wednesday, adjourned the meeting until next Tuesday at 11:30 o'clock in order that he might have an opportunity to examine the report of the accountants and also the agreement between the bond-holders and Joseph S. Rosen of 215 West 90th street, who has an offer before the referee of $52,000 for the plant.

The order to show cause returnable Wednesday was an order to show cause why the property should not be sold to Mr. Rosen under the offer which he made to the trustees. At the hearing Wednesday any objection to the offer was to be heard. Mr. Rosen had submitted in writing his offer after a prior hearing.

Benjamin H. Wicksel, counsel to the attorney for the trustees, explained the offer which Mr. Rosen has made. The offer and agreement with the bondholders was objected to by Mr. Kahn of 120 Broadway, New York, who said he not only represented creditors but was ready to make an offer for a purchaser. He objected to a sale to Mr. Rosen by the trustees on the grounds that the offer made in writing did not contain some of the specific provisions which had been mentioned orally yesterday. He said he was ready to make a "better offer" and later it developed his offer was for $55,-000.

Involved in the matter is $16,-000 in bonds which it is claimed by the trustees were issued without consideration and which are questioned. From the discussion between counsel Wednesday it appears that the trustees are willing to consummate a sale to Mr. Rosen who will issue, through a new corporation, bonds to substitute for the ones which are now held by the defunct company. Consent from the bondholders has been secured by Rosen.

The trustees propose to have issued to bondholders new bonds for those which they claims are legally held but they apparently do not contemplate issuing $16,-000 to replace the questioned bonds. In that event the holders of these bonds could bring an action and if successful would have bonds issued. In the event they were defeated and the bonds were not issued then this surplus would be applied to creditors' accounts.

The trustees are Martin F. Comeau, Judge Charles Tolleris and Stanley A. Katcher.

Best Possible Offer

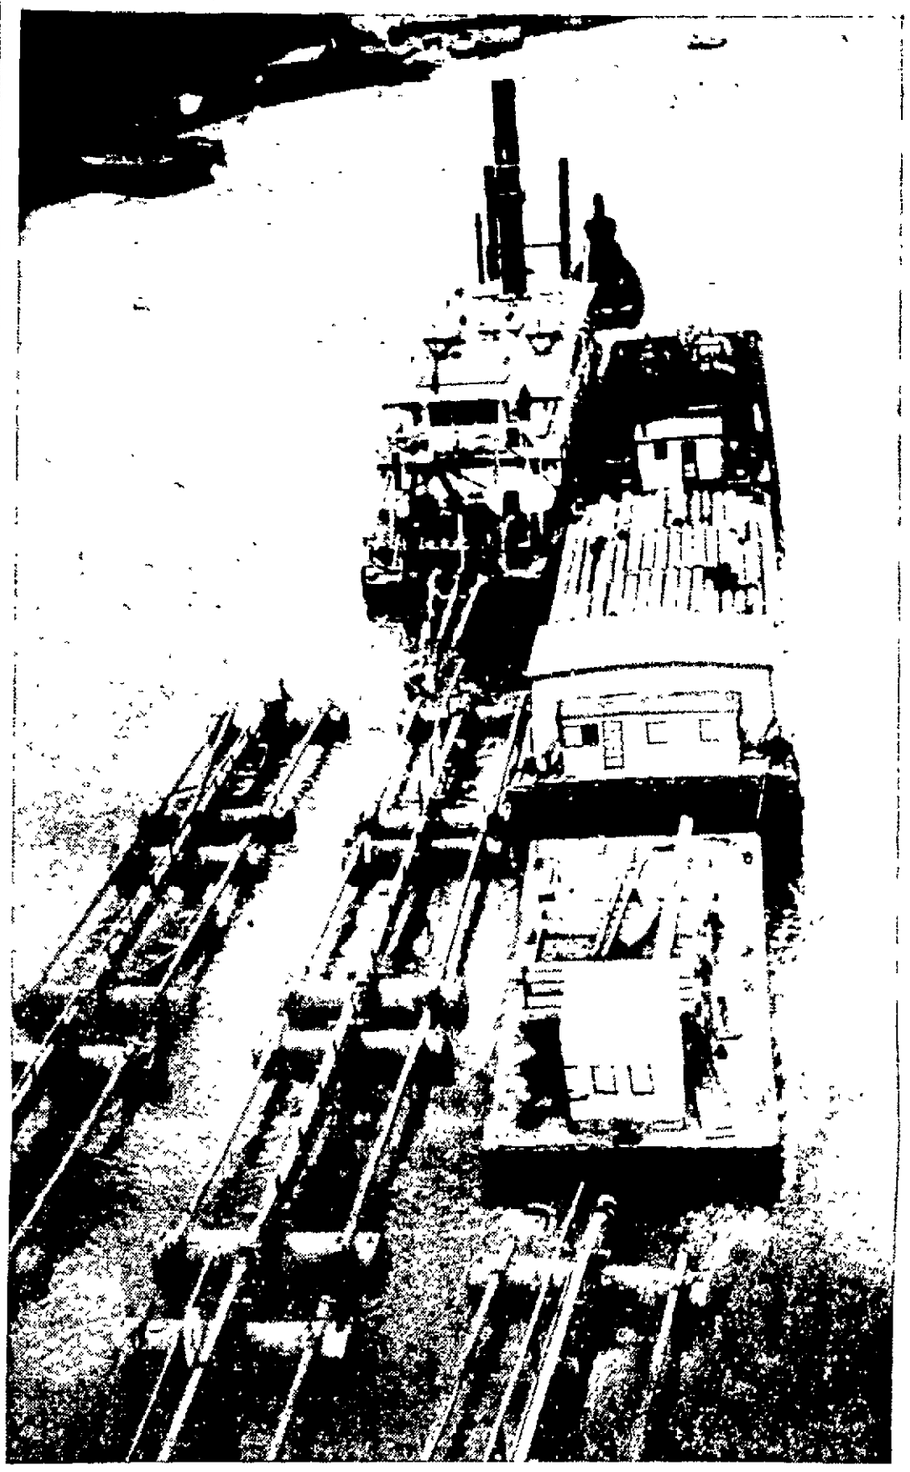
During the session which was attended by a large number of attorneys, Referee Miller stated that he was interested in getting the best possible offer and seeing that the creditors received as much as possible from the sale but he also was desirous of seeing that the plant went to someone who would continue to operate it and give employment to Ulster county residents who were depending upon the factory for work.

The new offer made by Mr. Rosen referred to an agreement with the bond-holders and Referee Miller decided to adjourn the matter while he studied this agreement. The question arose as to whether the offer made by Kahn of $55,000 was a better offer than the Rosen offer, in that Mr. Rosen agrees that in the event the trustees are successful in a cause of action to hold the $16,000 in bonds illegal then that sum would revert to the benefit of the estate. Whether that would be true under Mr. Kahn's offer was undetermined.

Should the Kahn offer after being studied indicate that this $16,000 would revert to his purchaser, then his offer would be less advantageous to the estate than the Rosen offer of $52,000.

Because of the large number of attorneys the hearing was held in the court room.

Making Deeper Rondout Harbor



Freeman Photo

Navigation on the Rondout Creek will be substantially aided through the work of the dredger, DeWitt Clinton, which has been sent here by the U. S. Engineers Office at Albany to remove 60,000 cubic yards of soft material and over 100 cubic yards of ledge rock from the bottom of the creek, extending from its junction with the Hudson River, 9,000 feet to the western end of the Island Dock. The dredger is shown above pulling toward the Connelly side of the creek where it began operations early in the week. It is shown towing barges with working equipment and convoys for the 20-inch pipe line through which the mud and rock is pumped to the dumping grounds. The dredging boat has facilities to accommodate a crew of 50 men, which accompanies it on the various projects. They will remain here for about two months.

Republicans Will Nominate Coroner On September 21

Candidates for the vacancy in the office of coroner in Ulster county, caused by the death on September 3 of Coroner Leston D. DuBois, who was killed in an automobile accident, will be named by the county committees of the major political parties.

The law provides that where a vacancy in office occurs after the last day to file designating petitions, which this year was August 16, nominations to fill the vacancy must be made by the county committee of a party or by a committee authorized by the county committee to fill such vacancies.

Chairman Philip Elting of the Republican County Central Committee has called a meeting of the members of the committee for Wednesday September 21, to nominate a candidate for coroner to succeed Mr. DuBois. The meeting will be held at the court house, Kingston, at 7:30 p. m.

Judge B. A. Culloton, chairman of the Democratic committee, said this morning that under their party rules in this county he is authorized to name a committee to select a candidate to fill the vacancy and that he would probably name the same committee that was selected by their county convention as a committee on vacancies.

It is understood that the Democratic nominee will probably be Michael Galletta of Gasco who has been named by Governor Lehman as temporary coroner pending the election of a successor to Mr. DuBois.

J. R. Cobb Drives Auto 350.2 Miles Per Hour

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Sept. 15 (AP)—Wealthy John R. Cobb of London usurped the world's automobile speed throne today with a mark of 350 2 miles per hour.

The doughty fur broker smashed the record of 345 49 miles per hour established here August 27 by Captain George E. T. Eyston, retired British army officer.

Cobb, a new man at high speed racing, flashed through the measured mile at 353.29 going north and 347.16 on the southward run.

Eyston's average for the north run was 347.49 and for the south 343.51.

Find Body in Corn Field

Sullivanville, N. Y., Sept. 14 (AP)—A three-day search for Mrs. Lois Chapman, 71, was ended today when her body was found in a corn field near here by State Troopers. Coroner Charles S. Dale issued a certificate of suicide. He said Mrs. Chapman had evidently wrapped kerosene-soaked rags around her head and set them on fire.

B. P. W. Members See Demonstration Of Street Sweeper

Members of the Board of Public Works on Wednesday witnessed a demonstration of a new type of street sweeper at work on the city streets. The new sweeper is turned out by the Austin, Weston Company, manufacturers of the present type of large sweeper owned by the board.

The new sweeper is about half the size of the sweeper purchased by the city. It has a number of improvements over the old and larger type of machine.

The demonstration was made at the request of the Austin Weston concern who desired to show just what the new type sweeper could do.

The large sweeper purchased by the board in 1937 costs about 72 cents a curb mile to operate. This cost includes maintenance, wages of the operator and the broom maker. The board employes the services of a broom maker who makes all of the brooms used in the sweeper.

The new type smaller sweeper, which is about half the size of the large sweeper, costs about 30 cents a curb mile to operate.

There are several other concerns who manufacture a small type of street sweeper who are anxious to send their machines to Kingston for a demonstration, and undoubtedly before the city purchases a new sweeper, if it is decided to do so, the other concerns will be given an opportunity of demonstrating their sweepers at work in the city.

Highland to Get Additional Fund For School Wing

President of Education Board Was Given Notice Tuesday That More PWA Money Will Be Allotted

Plans Approved

Local Board Gave Sanction to Plans for Extension at Recent Meeting

Mrs. Jennie H Rose, president of the board of education, Central School District No. 3, of Highland was notified over the week-end that the federal emergency administration of public works has approved the board's amendatory application for additional grant to aid in the financing of the proposed addition to the new high school building Official written confirmation was received from PWA by Mrs Rose on Tuesday, September 13.

The additional grant is in the amount of $32,300, raising the total grant to $186,200. The board had on hand, previous to approval of the additional grant, $39,500 for construction of the new wing. This sum consisted of $32,500 proceeds of the fire insurance settlement, and $7,000, approved at the taxpayers' meeting to be included in the annual budget.

Approval of the new grant means that the board will have available $71,800 to pay for the required addition It was learned at the project yesterday that this sum will be adequate to defray the cost of the proposed eight room addition.

Plans for the extension were approved by the board of education at a meeting held on Tuesday, September 13. The plans will then be submitted to the contractors now engaged on the site for the purpose of preparing their estimates of the added cost. This will require approximately one week. Some time during the coming week these figures will be submitted for action by the board of education, after which a request for approval of change orders covering the new work will be submitted to Col. M. E. Gilmore, regional director, federal emergency administration of public works.

It is hoped by all connected with the project that PWA will approve the procedure of constructing the new wing by change order. From the same source it was learned that to submit the new work to competitive bidding would result in great confusion and interminable delay in completion of the new school. Demolition of the north wing of the old building will probably be included in the change order to be issued to Eugene Oasle, general contractor. The rear wall of this wing encroaches on the building line of the new extension.

Progress on the new building has improved since elimination of the delay occasioned by non-delivery of the interior terra cotta. All interior walls on the first floor have been constructed and the pouring of the second floor concrete slab has been completed Most of the terra cotta has been delivered to the job since the first of the month and some of this material is now being incorporated in the building.

Construction of the new wing can be started almost immediately upon acceptance by the board of the contractors' estimates. It is the consensus of opinion of those connected with the job that, in the event the new work is authorized within the next couple of weeks, the entire building may be enclosed before freezing weather sets in.

Ex-Mayor Zimmermann Dead

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP)—Ex-Mayor George J. Zimmermann, 56, key figure in a nine-months-old city affairs inquiry, was dead today as a high court weighed his appeal from conviction on six felony counts. Zimmermann was found slumped on the floor of a bathroom by his wife. He was dead when doctors arrived. "The cause of death was coronary thrombosis," Dr. Edward J. Zimmermann, the former mayor's brother, announced. Zimmermann had been ill for several months and his trial last spring was postponed once because of a heart attack.

Higher Marine Insurance

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Higher marine insurance rates were in prospect today, because of the European situation. The existing rates were suspended by American underwriters yesterday, as their concern over the possibility of conflict in Europe increased. British underwriters met yesterday at Lloyd's in London, to consider a proposal to insert a clause making all marine insurance "free of capture and seizure," which excludes all war perils.

After Brief Exchange of Greetings, Hitler Conducts Chamberlain Into His House and Prime Minister Accepts Invitation to Dine With Him Tonight

SUDETENS DEMAND ANNEXATION

Annexation Proclamation Receives Greater Prominence in German Press Than Chamberlain's Visit

Italy Says Hitler Will Not Take Czech as Gift

Rome, Sept. 15 (AP)—Italian assurance was given today that Adolf Hitler would not take the Czech population of Czechoslovakia over as "a gift."

This was interpreted by some diplomats as an indirect offer of Germany to guarantee the Czechs integrity of their new frontier if they give up the Sudeten German areas to the Reich

The assurance embodied in an open letter to Viscount Runciman, British unofficial mediator of the Sudeten dispute, published in Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, was understood to have been written by Mussolini himself.

The letter was given a quasi-official character when it also was issued as a government communique.

"The writer of this letter is in a position to tell you—confidentially—that were he to be offered the 3,500,000 Czechs (there are about 10,000,000 Czechs and Slovaks in Czechoslovakia), Hitler would decline such a gift politely but resolutely," the letter said.

Condemn Trip As "Humiliating"

Geneva, Sept. 15 (AP).—Diplomats of 50 nations split sharply today over the wisdom of the British Premier Chamberlain's visit to Berchtesgaden to see Chancellor Hitler

They all agreed that the result would mean a long stride toward peace or war, but they differed over the direction.

Most of them called it a bold move. Win or lose, they said, Chamberlain's visit meant France and Britain had tossed their cards onto the table and Hitler's hand was called.

Some of the diplomats here for the league assembly condemned the trip to see Hitler as "humiliating." One central European diplomat bitterly and ironically dubbed it "the Anschluss of England," pointing out that Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria, too, went to Berchtesgaden before his nation was annexed by Germany.

This group considered Hitler's stock had been boosted tremendously and that Britain's prestige would be weakened throughout eastern and north Africa and the Near East.

Perhaps, others said, Hitler planned to continue the crisis until the beginning of winter, when his defenses on the French frontier would be ready.

If so, they said, Chamberlain had wrecked his game.

The view of a Czechoslovak spokesman was:

"Does this mean we go to the butcher's block or can it be our champion is going forth to battle"

Many Pay Taxes Before Deadline

The County Treasurer's Office in the Court House is a busy place these September days as many taxpayers from the various Towns in the County call to pay their taxes before any penalties are added.

The Board of Supervisors at a meeting last May extended the time for payment of County taxes without penalty to October 1., and after that date penalties at the rate of 10 per cent per annum from last Feoruary 1 to date of payment will have to be added to the amount of taxes due besides the usual 5 per cent collection fee. This means that the amount of penalty added to taxes paid in the month of October will be about seven per cent.

County Treasurer, V. T. Pine, said he will be glad to send a bill for taxes to all who ask for same and it is not necessary to go in person to the County Treasurer's Office but the bill may be mailed in with a check or money order and a receipt will be mailed promptly to the taxpayer. The County Treasurer hopes that a large number of those still owing county taxes will be able to take advantage of the remaining time to get their taxes in before the dead line on October 1.

(By The Associated Press)

The Sudeten Germans formally demanded annexation by Germany today as Britain's prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, met Adolf Hitler for a talk which Europe hoped would avert war over the Czechoslovak crisis. Chamberlain accepted an invitation from the fuehrer to dine with him tonight.

A proclamation, signed by Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein, asserted "it is definitely impossible for Sudeten Germans and Czechs to live in the same state."

"The Sudeten Germans want to return to our home in the Reich," it said.

The official German news agency, DNB, said in a dispatch from Neugersdorf, Saxony, near the Czechoslovak frontier, that war preparations in northern Czechoslovakia were alarmingly on the increase.

The population of the border regions was in a panic, DNB said.

Henlein's proclamation received greater prominence in the German press than even Chamberlain's visit to Berchtesgaden.

Alarmed by the serious turn of events in Czechoslovakia, Chamberlain arranged the unprecedented conference by a telegram to Hitler yesterday and flew to Germany this morning.

"I am going to see the German chancellor," he said, "because the situation seems to me to be one in which discussions between him and me may have useful consequences.

"The fuehrer's reply to my suggestion encourages me to hope that my visit to him will not be without results."

Chamberlain Arrives

Berchtesgaden, Germany, Sept. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain arrived here at 4 02 p. m. today (10·02 a. m., E S T.) for his talks with Reichsfuehrer Hitler in search of means to assure European peace.

The British leader was received by Dr. Otto Meissner, chief of the chancellery, who conducted him after a short stop at the Grand Hotel to Hitler's home, Berghof on Obersalzberg

A special train brought Chamberlain and his party from Munich, where he had arrived earlier from London by airplane.

A crowd which had gathered near the railway station cheered Chamberlain when he appeared, walking from the train with Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, who had accompanied him from Munich.

Ribbentrop remained with the British prime minister as he motored to the hotel and thence to Berghof.

Standing at the top of the wide staircase leading into his home, the German chancellor welcomed his visitor After a brief exchange of greetings Hitler conducted Chamberlain into the house.

People lined the winding road between Berchtesgaden and Obersalzberg and cheered as the British party drove by in one of Hitler's famed big black motor cars.

Groups shouted "Heils" and threw their green Bavarian caps into the air.

Before his train reached Berchtesgaden Chamberlain had recovered from the effects of his flight from London, his first journey by air.

Chamberlain accepted an invitation from the fuehrer to dine with him tonight.

Momentous Meeting

World hopes of averting devastating war rested in the momentous meeting today of two men comparable in power but unlike in almost everything else.

One is Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain, whose journey to this Alpine town was a dramatic climax to one of the strangest personal stories in the history of the British government.

His host is Chancellor Adolf Hitler, one-time corporal who leads powerfully re-armed Germany and calls himself the protector of 3,500,000 German-speaking people in neighboring Czechoslovakia.

Troubles involving these Sudeten German Nazi proteges and having in them the germs of war brought about Chamberlain's sudden decision to fly here.

The crisis was months old. It threatened war last May when Czechoslovak municipal elections worried Germany and central Europe. It became more tense last Monday when Hitler proclaimed

Democrats Expect Primary Contests

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP)—Intra-party dissension, principally between New Deal and anti-New Deal Democrats, assured today an almost unprecedented number of contests for nominations to the State Legislature in next Tuesday's primary election.

Tabulations showed 67 contests for Assembly designations and 20 for the Senate, 43 of which involve incumbent legislators. Of the latter, 31 are Democrats and 12 Republicans.

Major interest centers in factional disputes in the two-year-old American Labor party which is making a bid for recognition as a major political factor with a plethora of candidates of its own and alliances with Democrats and Republicans.

Most bitter of the intra-party contests, particularly among the Democrats, are in New York, Queens and Kings counties (New York city and Brooklyn), while upstate the Democrats have feuds in Erie and Orange counties and the Republicans in Broome, Cayuga, Chautauqua, Cortland, Essex, Franklin, Montgomery, Niagara, Oneida, St. Lawrence and Schenectady counties.

Democrats have the largest number of primary contests, 35 involving the Assembly and seven the Senate, as against the Republicans' 23 Assembly rivalries and nine Senate squabbles. The American Labor party has nine Assembly contests and four senatorial.

Considerable interest is being manifest in the attempt of Democratic Assemblyman John F. Killgrew, denied renomination by Tammany Hall, to defeat the organization designee, Owen McGivern, and in the efforts of six aspirants to unseat Democratic incumbent Mario J Cariello in the Fifth Assembly District, Queens county.

Upstate Republican incumbent Assemblymen opposed in the primary included Carl E. Darling, Chautauqua; Thomas A. Leahy, Essex; L. James Shaver, Montgomery; Fayette E. Pease, Niagara; Warren O. Daniels, St. Lawrence, and Harold Armstrong, Schenectady.

Renomination of the Assembly and Senate leaders was assured because of lack of opposition.

The Misses Florence Hill and Alice Holumzer spent the week end with Miss Hill's parents at Gloversville.

Postmasters General in Cabinet

From the organization of the federal government down to the year 1829 the postmasters general were not recognized as members of the cabinet. The first postmaster general under the present Constitution was Samuel Osgood of Massachusetts, appointed by President Washington September 26, 1789. He was regarded as the head of a bureau. But it was not until 40 years later, when Andrew Jackson became President, that the postmaster general was asked to sit as a member of the cabinet. President Jackson nominated William T. Barry of Kentucky to the office of postmaster general and invited him to a seat in the cabinet. Since then the head of the post office department has been considered a member of the cabinet.

FREE EDUCATION

The American people started something when they established free public schools. The start was simple and primitive, in the little one-room school house. Now, consider this: In a conference at Cornell University recently, it was urged that "all barriers to free education, whether economic or social," be removed.

H. C. Hutchins of Washington, assistant secretary of the Educational Policies Commission, maintained that schools, libraries and recreational facilities be combined to serve everybody. "This involves," he said, "in addition to free tuition, the provision of books and educational supplies. In many cases, of transportation; and in some cases, maintenance grants necessitated by the low income of the family from which the pupil comes. Thus American education will reach the ideal of equality of opportunity."

The commission to which he belongs asks that public education "be made effectively free at all levels." The program advocated would carry students, regardless of their own resources, through the junior college and to the age of 20.

This program, many will say, is "socialistic." It is. Our public school system has been so from the first, although few have thought of it as such. It merely seems to be a question now of how far this particular phase of social democracy is to be carried.

BRITISH LABOR

It is well that American attention is turned, for a little while at least, to the way Great Britain has worked out some of the problems we are now wrestling with. On the whole, peaceful cooperation, or at least a spirit of mutual tolerance, seems to have taken the place of industrial warfare. It seems strange when we remember the great general strike of a dozen years ago, which prostrated British industry and aroused talk of civil war. Also when we recall the fierce political battles fought by Lloyd George and his followers in the old days before the war.

The special American commission that went to England to study the relations of employers and employes seems to have done, on the whole, a useful and timely job. The British method of solving such problems may not make a blueprint for America, but Britain certainly has attained a high degree of industrial peace and satisfaction, on both sides, through the initiative of the government and with the gradual but now general acquiescence of employers.

Self-interest should move American employers, employes and the public in between to take interest in the matter to learn, at least, how Britain seems to have risen above the class struggle in which America is still engaged.

FAME'S BLIGHT

Poor Douglas Corrigan. This exclamation is uttered advisedly. From recent news accounts, the bonny Irish lad who flew the Atlantic with such a combination of skill, courage and humor, and then flew just as blithely and quietly into the heart of America, is languishing.

He obviously wearies of an endless round of parades, banquets, speeches and flowers. At the National Air Races, though naturally the cynosure of the show, he was visibly drooping. He could hardly produce a grin for the feminine beauties ready to welcome him with flowers and kisses. He shrank from the crowds. He wanted quietness and sleep.

An overdose of fame brings spiritual indigestion. Too much public attention may sour a good man's life. There is Lindbergh, for instance.

The best thing that could happen to Corrigan right now is to get a good job in some airplane factory and stay there, like a groundhog in winter, defying all Chambers of Commerce, journalists, showmen and bathing beauties, to haul him out.

UNIFORMS

After October 28, it is expected, one-sixth of the population of Italy will be in uniform. That will mean about one person per family. The total number of uniforms will be 7,500,000. It must be a great time for the tailors and clothing manufacturers. And there will doubtless be a spiritual uplift when all those people get into their new clothes.

The army accounts for about three-quarters of a million, the air and navy forces more than 100,000, the police 40,000, and the various political organizations nearly 6,000,000. These include 2,500,000 full-fledged male Fascists, 1,500,000 women and 1,700,00 boys and girls in the various Fascist youth organizations. All civil employes are to be uniformed.

It amounts to a masterpiece of regimentation. There is no more effective way to make people look alike, think alike and act alike than to put them into the same fixed clothing patterns, especially when the clothes are made a badge of patriotism and a mystic symbol of the national life.

The Canadian government is now starting a national housing plan, disabusing Americans of the notion that all a Canadian has to do when he needs a home is to chop down trees and build himself a log cabin.

Stresemann was a greater man than Hitler. He got what he wanted for Germany by peaceful means, without armament or bluster, by making friends of neighboring countries.

With nations as with men, "pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall." The Nazis wouldn't admit it, though, because the statement is non-Aryan.

Size isn't so important. Astronomers have found a star 10,000,000 times as big as our sun, but spread out so thin that there's no more stuff in it.

The simplest way would be for the Sudetens and Czechs to fight it out themselves instead of starting a free-for-all.

"Mind-workers should see that their feet keep warm," says one of 'em. "That's where their brains are."

The ancient Athenians were always "seeking some new thing." Modern Americans are always going some new place.

"We always seem to be in a public crisis of some kind nowadays," complains a peace-loving citizen. We always were.

SYMPTOMS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Another year has passed and it must be admitted that the various methods used to prevent infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis) have not proven generally successful. However it is well that all should know how the disease is contracted or transmitted from one child to another.

"The disease is transmitted by direct or indirect contact with the patient, principally by contamination with the infected secretions of, or discharge from the nose, mouth, and throat. Whether infection occurs by direct contact—kissing, or by eating or drinking out of the same dishes, or by inhaling droplets which have been coughed or sneezed into the atmosphere around a patient, or by inhaling infected dust, the fact remains that it is transmitted from person to person."

The early symptoms resemble other ailments—fever, headache, restlessness, perhaps vomiting—but stiffness and pain in the back of the neck and sometimes going down the spine should make parents send for their physician at once. A puncture of the spinal cord at a point in the small of the back enables the physician to examine the spinal fluid and thus learn whether infantile paralysis is or is not present. As some parents object to the puncture the physician usually considers the case as infantile paralysis for the next week or ten days.

What about treatment? The main thought is the prevention of paralysis. An editorial a few weeks ago in the Journal of the American Medical Association stated:

"Complete rest is so important that it is usually far better to have the child in bed at home when the disease is first suspected than to move the patient any appreciable distance to hospital. When these patients are disturbed or moved as little as possible a majority in whom the disease has not progressed beyond the early stages escape paralysis entirely. Should the patient have paralysis, especially of arms and legs, the affected part should be put in a cast at once. Early rest of a weakened muscle will help prevent permanent crippling."

As there is no special remedy for the early stages of the disease, absolute rest is the keynote of treatment.

THE CLOUDED MOON

By MAX SALTMARSH

The Characters

Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.
Archie Lumsden, myself, his friend.
René Geiss, head of a murder conspiracy.

Yesterday: The juge acquits me of complicity in the crimes, and learns that I suspect Geiss. Fleuriot asks to talk to me.

Chapter 24

Mr. Noah More

FLEURIOT was waiting for me outside the police station in his small, battered Renault.

"May I return to the chalet," I asked him, "after I pick up my things at the hotel?"

"Assuredly," said he politely. "Although, in view of the valuable evidence you can give, I trust you are not thinking of leaving Cannes for the present?"

"Not until this business is finally cleared up," I assured him.

"Monsieur Lumsden, that last remark of yours appears to argue a special interest in the case—an interest that I cannot feel to be wholly impersonal."

"Perhaps you're right," I agreed reluctantly.

"You do not wish, perhaps, to discuss your reasons for such an interest? Well, I will respect your reticence, I will ask no questions—save this one, and here I speak not as a police official but as man to man. Monsieur Lumsden, ignoring the two earlier crimes and considering only this last one—if you were in my position, knowing what I know and nothing more—whom would you suspect of the murder of Monsieur Venner?"

"I think," I said slowly, "that I'd keep a pretty close eye on the chasseur."

He drew a deep breath. "I fancy," he commented dryly, "that the sooner we arrive at the Château la Vague, the better."

It was a bare minute later that we pulled up at the gates, but though it was not yet nine o'clock, the big house was completely dark. The man from Marseille strode to the office counter and rang the bell, and a moment later the housekeeper appeared.

"The chasseur, mademoiselle," Fleuriot said abruptly. "Have the goodness to call him. I wish for a word with him."

She started at that. "I am sorry, but he is not here. With the guests gone, there was no more work for him. I paid him his wages and he left this evening."

"You let him go?" he echoed. "And where to, may one ask? What address did he leave with you?"

She shrugged expressively. "He left no address. Why should he, and why should I ask for one? He had only been here a day, and the juge d'instruction had already questioned him. He," and she flashed a vicious glance at me, "he was not suspect!"

"So, he was not suspect?" Fleuriot snarled back at her. "That is enchanting! And you, one supposes, mademoiselle, are not suspect either?" He swung round on me. "Monsieur Lumsden, I had intended to conduct you to the chalet, but I regret that is now impossible. I have too much to attend to."

"Don't worry about me," I told him. "I'll pack my bag and walk!"

I did as I had said, but though it was a short enough way and the bag was light, I was uncommonly glad to see the chalet gates loom up beside me in the dusk. There was a family party assembled on the terrace, Ada and Dunning sitting side by side under the cork tree, and Hugo leaning over the balustrade.

The big dog, Lulu, lay at his feet, but at sight of me he rose and came across the terrace to meet me; wagging his tail, and as he did so Hugo hailed me with a joyful shout. Next minute they were all around me, welcoming, questioning; but after one look at me, Hugo caught me by the arm and dragged me to my room.

"It's bed for you, my lad," said he grimly, and shortly I was reclining comfortably on my narrow couch, a supper tray on my knees, with Hugo and Dunning sitting on either side, and Ada, wide-eyed and breathless, leaning by the window, while I told my story between mouthfuls.

The Belgian Yacht

"I'M STILL waiting to hear what's happened to both of you," I ended.

Hugo sighed. "Nothing from my end," said he.

"I haven't broken such a lot of ice either," said Dunning. "Beyond seeing that our three lovebirds, Geiss, Stahl, and Rakovsky, haven't been up to any tricks, I've done nothing. Stahl has spent his time drinking on the Carlton terrace; Rakovsky hasn't stirred a foot outside his villa garden, and Geiss this morning moved over bag and baggage to join him. Apart from your valuable efforts, any credit for recent sleuthing goes to our young friend Jean-François. First and foremost, he has located the yacht."

I exclaimed at that. "The deuce he has!" and he nodded solemnly.

"She arrived in the harbor late last night, a seagoing boat, by name the Rendezvous, sailing under the Belgian flag and carrying a crew of six; and her owner, strangely enough, is the hardy mariner Baron Stahl. But the boy did more than locate her. He discovered that she was short of a cabin steward, and he got himself signed on the job. The engineer has orders to keep stern up, and the lad tells me the staterooms are all ready for occupation and there are sufficient victuals for a long-ish voyage."

I whistled. "Planning a get-away, in case things go wrong?" I suggested, and he nodded.

"Precisely," said he, "but with Jean-François aboard, we shall get full and due warning. The boy has maintained contact with his friends at Geiss's — or rather did until last night."

He broke off to chuckle. "What happened was partly my fault," he confessed. "I sent a man along to make a few inquiries at the villa. My man represented himself to be a traveling salesman for sewing-machines, but unluckily at one period in his career he had been an agent of the Sûreté, and the precious pair recognized him. They fancied the police were on their tracks again, and last night they folded their tents like the Arabs and silently stole away, so that our dear friend René is now without a domestic staff, which is, I take it, why he has shifted himself across the frontier."

"A pity," I said.

"A pity in one way," he agreed, "but in another not without its brighter side, for the villa is now untenanted, and we'll never succeed in pinning the guilt on Mr. René Geiss until we've located the gun with which he shot poor Pat."

As they were leaving, Hugo said, "Stay where you are until you're rested. Tomorrow I'm going to try and find that Amourié, whatever it may be."

Ride In A Bus

ALL next day I followed Hugo's advice and dozed comfortably. At suppertime, Hugo telephoned. "No one seems to have heard of Amourié, said he, "and I've been over the coast with a fine tooth comb. If you take a bus down at nine thirty, I'll meet you for a drink at that big café in the Allées de la Liberté."

At ten minute past nine I was on the corner of the road hailing a passing bus. It was packed to the brim. I climbed the little step, wedged myself inside, and felt the door graze my back as it shut to. Next minute we were off again on a wildly zigzagging course along the narrow road. I held my breath and hung to the brass rail behind the driver, as we swerved perilously round corner after corner; and then, suddenly, something happened.

We were cascading down a narrow, cobbled street, when a man behind me pushed me rudely to one side, caught the door-lever, and threw it over, and at the same moment I felt an almighty shove, like the thrust of someone's knee, in the small of my back. We were shooting round a house with an angle as sharp as a knife-edge, and even as I pitched forward and outward, I seemed to hear the crack my head would give as it hit the wall; but as I fell, someone caught me by the leather belt about my middle and dragged me back in the very nick of time, and at the same moment the bus pulled up with a screaming of brakes.

The driver thrust his head round a couple of passengers and let out a very pretty flood of profanity. "Where is the madman who did that?"

I turned, for I had an even greater curiosity to see the individual who had so nearly precipitated me into eternity, and found myself staring into a vacant, dust-colored face.

"Well," I said bitterly, "you nearly pulled it off that time, Mr. Noah More!" and saw his eyes travel slowly round to me, as if he found it difficult to focus them.

"You know me?" he said. "That is, of course, not my real name—but it is strange, all the same, that you should know it."

His gaze wandered, and he brought it back to my face with a visible effort. "I am sorry this has happened," he said vaguely. "I assure you it was not intentional on my part—I merely wished to get out."

Next minute he was in the roadway, hastening, with his queer shuffling tread, up a side-street. The driver swung the door to and tapped his forehead significantly. "Imbécile!" said he, and out down his foot on the gas, but as he did so, a voice spoke from behind me.

"Not an imbecile!" it said, speaking in English, but with the gentle singsong of the Levant.

I turned and saw, standing just behind me, one of the innumerable Arab carpet-sellers of the Riviera, a dark-skinned, gentle-eyed creature, in crimson fez and flowing draperies, his gaudy merchandise piled on one arm.

"Was it you who pulled me back?" I asked, conscience-stricken because, in the flurry of the moment, I had forgotten to look for the man who had undoubtedly saved my life.

He nodded slowly and raised his lips to my ear. "Monsieur Dunning will be glad to hear it," he whispered with the ghost of a smile, and next moment, with a fine flourish, we pulled up at the terminus by the town hall. As I scrambled out, I paused to look for him, but all I saw was a flutter of white draperies disappearing under the shadowy lime trees, and I turned my steps rather thoughtfully towards the Allées de la Liberté.

The Frightened Customers

"I SHOULD like to have a hair cut and a shave and I should like to have my whiskers trimmed," said Willy Nilly to the barber.

"Yes, indeed, everything will be attended to at once," said a very pleasant barber. "Will you sit in this chair for a few moments until I finish with the customer I now have?"

Willy Nilly sat in a big chair and read a magazine. It seemed some time before the barber was ready for him.

"Maybe," said Willy Nilly, "I'd better have my nails trimmed. I've been working so hard with my hands, building a boat, sailing."

"Of course," said the barber.

"And there is another thing," continued Willy Nilly, as he sat in the chair while the barber made a soapy lather which he was going to put on Willy Nilly's face, "I wonder if something couldn't be done about my sticking-out, pointed ears. I have been meaning to do something about them for ever so long. They do look so much like a goat's ears and as you can see I'm not a goat—I'm only a little gnome-like man and my friends are animal friends—because I like animals and can understand what they say."

The other customers in the barber shop looked at Willy Nilly as though they thought he was a very strange creature and as he realized they thought that he behaved even more strangely.

"I like animals," he shouted. "I really do! I like them better than people—most people I mean.

"Now what about my ears?"

But the customers were becoming frightened. Who was this strange object who talked about his animal friends and who had such queer ears?

Washington Daybook

By CHARLES NUTTER
Associated Press Correspondent Recently in Madrid

(Guest Columnist for Preston Grover)

WASHINGTON — A visitor on the Aragon front in Spain last spring was amazed and alarmed to find himself walking with a guide through trenches only knee-deep, and the enemy lines 300 yards away.

As he dived for cover, his officer guide turned to reassure him by saying:

"That's all right, we don't shoot at each other up here."

The visitor thereupon proceeded with a three-day survey of fortifications in that sector during which he avows he didn't hear a rifle shot fired "in anger."

In fact the story was current, he said, that a rifle shot was used as an airraid warning.

• • •

Beware Of The Enemy

ANOTHER visitor to that front once reported an arrow sign, like a highway marker, pointing across country, with the legend, "Enemy Lines, Three Kilometers, DANGER."

Along this front, it might be added, troops planted and cultivated flower gardens between the lines during the summer of 1937.

That's all changed now, however, for when General Franco looking for a weak spot this spring, hit this sector, his troops weren't stopped until they were swimming in the Mediterranean and Loyalist Spain had again been divided in half.

No-Man's-Land may be 10 miles or more across, the lines consisting only of outposts, an artillery piece, or a machine gun crew commanding a valley. On one occasion the Loyalist cavalry turned cowboy temporarily and rounded up 6,000 head of cattle grazing in "No-Man's-Land" on the southern front. Not a shot was fired at them.

Another time in Estramadura, two non-commissioned officers from Insurgent Spain deserted to the Loyalists in a high-powered American motor car, riding up in style to surrender and to be greeted joyously because they had the wit to bring along thousands of cigarettes to the tobaccoless Loyalist outpost.

When isolated Asturias fell last October a number of Loyalist troops made their way unmolested through the enemy lines, across 250 miles of enemy country and more enemy lines, and rejoined the Loyalists at Madrid.

Fishing For Food

TROOPS often hunt and fish between the lines, not for sport, but for fresh food which is always welcome. Cases of peasants tilling their soil in comparative peace between the so-called lines have been reported at various times.

The reason is obvious. Spain is divided into two enemy camps by more than 1,000 miles of lines . . . three times the front line territory in France and Belgium during the World war which was manned by probably 10 times as many men. Even in France there were quiet sectors with weeks of inactivity.

In Spain only key highways and positions are heavily entrenched and fortified. Even manning these fortifications requires so many men that neither side has large numbers of offensive troops. That is one factor prolonging the war. Neither side has a force free to strike with overpowering strength at a vital spot.

Fraternizing across the lines despite every effort to stop it is reported on a limited scale.

Propaganda by loudspeaker is used to convince the other troops they are fighting for the wrong cause.

Often this spreads the alarm to nearby sectors and before long there is heavy firing on a miles-long front, none knowing just what brought on the action.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — There is something terribly startling and awfully thrilling about a telegram. You never know what to expect. It may announce a death, or bring tidings of a wedding. They make you hold your breath a little, and you don't expel it until the envelope is ripped open and you read what's inside.

I get lots of telegrams. Everybody in New York gets telegrams because everybody sends them. And after awhile it gets to be like the cry of "wolf." For most of them are from press-agents. All press-agents send telegrams here.

People send telegrams when they could communicate much more quickly with you by merely reaching for the telephone. But they don't want to say words into a telephone that probably would be forgotten. Maybe they think I'm absent-minded. It certainly looks that way. They telegraph information across the street. In such instances it would require at least 30 minutes for the wire to be delivered. But a call by phone, or even in person, would take only two minutes.

• • •

TODAY I received seven telegrams, two from people in the same block. One of them said: "Please kill story about ——— Information incorrect." Five minutes after this wire was sent I was having lunch with its author, but he never mentioned it to me. It was on my desk when I got back.

Another one advised: "J. Carrol Naish arrived in New York from Hollywood today especially to sit in as an observer at the numbers racket trial."

Naish is an actor. His newest picture is "King of Alcatraz," in which he is a gangster, and this is what the telegram quotes Naish as saying:

"No actor can learn the traits of a gangster when neither actor nor director has ever seen a gangster in action. There is only one way Hollywood can learn the facial expressions, character traits, and vocabulary of the gangster and that is to study him when he is at his sharpest and best—in the court room.

• • •

"FOR myself, I believe in being real—literally real. That is why I am here. The next time you see me on the screen as a gangster or a lawyer watch and you'll probably note that I have incorporated in my technique many of the things I expect to learn while sitting as an observer at the trial."

But, at that, the sender is correct. For here I am using that information, putting down one little word after another, just as delivered by a Western Union messenger boy at 10:59 this morning.

As for Naish making a cross-continental journey just to study the facial expressions of people alleged to be gangsters—well, your guess is as good as mine. Anyway, here is the story. I hope the alleged gangsters won't get sore.

New York—That familiar and homely landmark of the railroad industry, the roundhouse, is to be simulated in the Railroad Transportation Building at the New York World's Fair 1939, part of the huge structure being erected under the sponsorship of 26 railroad lines of the eastern United States. The entrances to this section of the structure are to be similar to those a roundhouse provides for locomotives, and be nine in all. The circular construction is to provide a lobby with a ceiling 40 feet high.

Library Group Holds Meeting

Woodstock, Sept. 15.—The regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Woodstock Library was held in the library on the evening of September 8. After the reading of the reports of the regular committee chairman, the floor was given to Miss Alice Wardwell, chairman of the 1938 County Fair Committee.

Miss Wardwell presented a report, and a comprehensive plan of organization of the fair which had such outstanding success under her leadership this year. Miss Wardwell contributed her plan as a permanent record for future use, and special recommendations for next year's fair. Her paper was received with great enthusiasm and appreciation for her achievement.

George Neher, chairman of the administration committee, made a report about the heating of the library and it was received that rather than install an oil burner in the present stoves, it would be better to continue as at present and hope that a proper heating plant can be installed in the future.

Latest reports from the Horse Show indicate that the net receipts will total $36.79, which will probably be expended to increase the library's book fund, which due to a meagre budget has been too low for several years.

There were four revocations in this section as follows.

Alfred Zimmerman of Highland was penalized with a suspension for reckless driving.

Swing music and symphonic compositions both will affect the spirits of visitors to the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition at different times during their progress through the exhibit palaces as architects of public mood mold their thoughts through broadcast tunes, creating "musical mood control."

Hollywood
Sights And Sounds
By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Some of these movie people don't have to worry about any balmy old-age pension scheme Most of them would swap the hope of thirty-every-Thursday like this—snap!—just for a one-way ticket into a healthy, active movie "family series

The Jones Family has kept Jed Prouty and Spring Byington busy for three years now—and they're both free to take outside pictures when they come Lewis Stone has a lifetime assignment in Judge Hardy, and that Hardy family will never be complete if Mickey Rooney leaves it, or Cecilia Parker either

The Gleasons—Jimmy, Lucile, and Russell—have just put forth another family in 'The Higginses" It's a first, may be a series

* * *

WHERE they haven't families in this new studio craze, they have the equivalent in what amounts to old-time serial stuff—with a difference The old serials of the late Pearl White's era were two-reelers, each episode leaving its heroine dangling from a cliff or caught in the mangle at the laundry or facing some such fate worse than death Today's are features, telling their story at one sitting, but saving the characters for further use in sequels

This type is flourishing Bonita Granville is set for a long time to come as Nancy Drew, the girl detective So is Frankie Thomas, her youthful vis-a-vis—contracted on his assurance that his adolescent voice won't change before they've trapped the last crook Lucille Ball as Annabelle the Movie Queen won't be idle either.

* * *

EVEN Lew Ayres, his come-back as a John Barrymorish comedian a hit is going to be a serial king For miles of reelage ahead he's slated to play "Dr Kildare" in a series by Max Brand on adventures in and about a hospital. Sort of a "Bulldog Drummond" thing, planned to go on as long as the traffic will bear it And "Drummond" seems to be holding up, too

Adventures of one sort and another are all planned ahead as series Two "sports adventures"—with Henry Armetta and Inez Palange as carry-over comedy characters — already have been made June Lang and Lynn Bari are set as the "Big Town Girls" Michael Whalen and Chic Chandler are those "Roving Reporters," and Brian Donlevy and Wally Vernon are the "Camera Daredevils"

All these pictures are giving actors "permanent' berths — as "permanence" goes in Hollywood.

PRIDE OF NAVY IN '98 ENDS DAYS AS A CRANESHIP

U. S. S. Kearsarge Once One of Most Powerful Battleships.

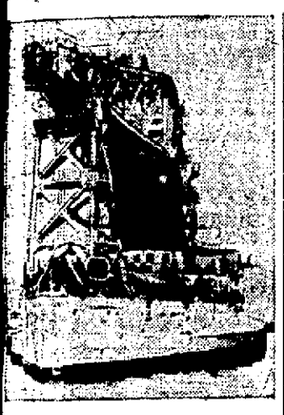
NEW YORK.—When the United States Craneship 1 recently arrived at the New York navy yard, Brooklyn, in tow of the transport Sirius, her strange appearance—swollen sides, odd deckhouses and huge crane—disguised a former pride of the fleet, the U. S. S. Kearsarge. Once of the most powerful battleships in the world at the time of her launching in 1898, the Kearsarge was brought from Bremerton navy yard, near Seattle, to assist in the construction of the two battleships on the ways at Philadelphia and New York.

Ordered in 1895 and built at Newport News, Va., the Kearsarge and her sister ship, the Kentucky, were put in commission in 1900. Their 11,520 tons displacement made them the heaviest vessels in the United States navy; main batteries of four 13-inch and four 8-inch guns, each firing a broadside weighing three tons, put them in the top rank for fire power.

Had Daring Construction.

The turret arrangement was considered a daring innovation, and was a precursor of the now familiar system of having the turrets in series, one over the other.

Another distinction of the Kearsarge was that she was the last



U. S. Craneship No. 1, shown passing through Panama canal, was once one of world's greatest ships.

first-line battleship not named for a state. Instead she commemorated a naval vessel of Civil war fame, which in turn was named for Mt. Kearsarge, N. H.

The Kearsarge's career was not warlike. Completed too late for the Spanish-American war, she was on the reserve list and serving as a training ship for the Massachusetts naval militia when the World war came. Her only casualty was suffered through the peace-time explosion of a five-inch gun—with the theoretical exception of one occasion when she was "put out of action" in a sham battle.

Made Craneship in 1920.

The Kearsarge was one of the 16 battleships composing the United States fleet which circumnavigated the globe in 1907-1909. Not long after the Kearsarge was extensively refitted, cage-wire masts substituted for her "stick" military masts and four five-inch guns added to her secondary armament. But the rapid advance of naval architecture had already overtaken the ship and she was put on the reserve list. In 1920 her masts, turret guns, propelling machinery and other fittings were removed; a wide bulge fitted to her sides to increase her stability; cranes and deckhouses added and the Kearsarge became Craneship 1. The cost of reconstruction was nearly $3,000,000.

The naval progress which put the Kearsarge into the discard is strikingly illustrated by the contrast between that ship and the two battleships North Carolina and Washington, now under construction. The new vessels will be more than twice as long as the 370-foot Kearsarge; their displacement, 35,000 tons, will be three times as great, with the broadside of their 16-inch guns in the same proportion. Finally, the estimated cost of the new ships is $70,000,000, whereas the Kearsarge was completed for about $5,000,000—not enough to pay for a modern destroyer.

Pipeline 100 Years Old Is Made of Hollow Logs

CHARDON, OHIO.—A pipeline of hollowed logs 1,000 feet long, thought to be a part of a plumbing system installed about 100 years ago, has been uncovered by D. O. Root on a farm near here.

Holes had been bored through the middle of the logs and the end of each log was sharpened to join the next.

In one of the logs below the spring was a cut-off. A hole had been bored and a plug inserted. When water was required the plug was raised. It still will operate.

Officer Barmann Qualified as Bee Expert Wednesday

"The bee menace on Hone street will be cleaned up by this evening," said Motorcycle Officer Henry P. Barmann, bee expert of the Kingston police department, this morning in discussing the wild flight of angry bees when their home in the former office building on the site of the old Hoffman brewery was being demolished on Wednesday.

The bees invaded Hone street homes and stung pedestrians on the street in the vicinity of the former brewery when their home was broken up in the course of taking down the former office building.

The bees were in control of the field Wednesday afternoon when Officer Barmann, equipped with a bee net and gloves reached the scene with an empty hive. Officer Barmann as a side line raises bees as he is very fond of honey. Bees present no problem to him as he has carefully studied their habits.

Placing the net about his head and donning a pair of heavy gloves Officer Barmann entered the building and using a butcher knife cut away the honey combs and placed some of the combs in the hive he had brought with him.

Immediately the swarm of angry bees which had been buzzing about his head forsook him and darted into the hive.

"I was unable to complete the job last night," said Officer Barmann, "as it grew too dark, but after I complete my hours on duty this afternoon I expect to finish up the job and remove the bees to my home."

Asked if he did not consider it a ticklish job to try and garner the angry swarm of bees the genial police officer shook his head and smiled. "Not if you understand bees and how to handle them," he replied.

Man Charged With Murder; One Dead, Two Are Wounded

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP)—Walanti Bednarski, 54, proprietor of a West Side cafe, was charged with murder today as an aftermath of a shooting last night that left one dead and two persons critically wounded.

Edmund Laskowski, 27, described by police as a "bystander," died at 2:25 a. m., in St. Joseph's Hospital as a result of wounds in the back.

Mrs. Mary Bednarski, 46, wife of the accused and mother of five children, was in St. Joseph's with bullet wounds in her chest.

Walter Lyman, 33, a utility employe, was in the same hospital also with wounds in his chest. The condition of both was reported by hospital authorities as "critical."

Chief of Police William Rapp said Bednarski admitted the shooting and told him he opened fire when he saw Lyman talking with his wife at the bar.

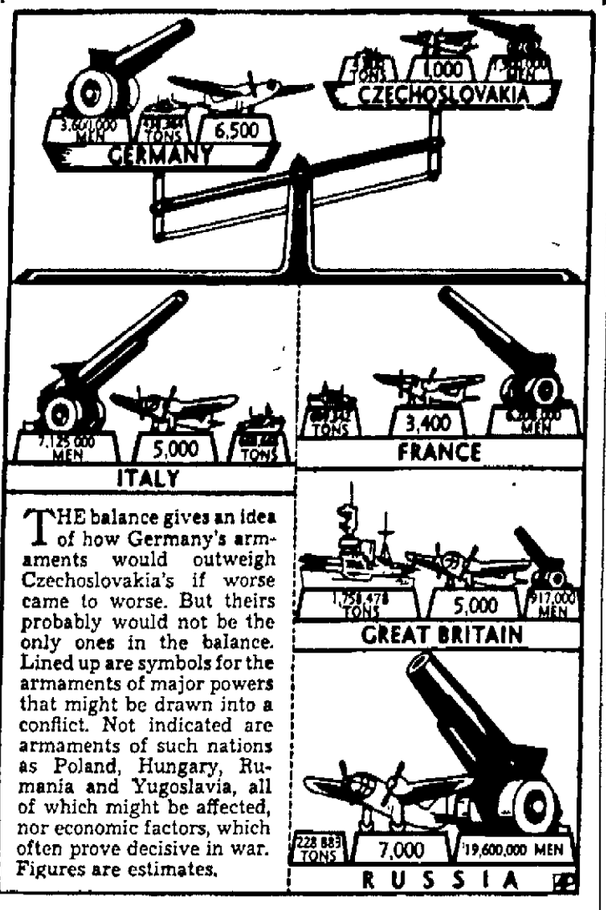
The regular harvest home supper will be held the last Sunday in November.

How Would They Balance?



THE balance gives an idea of how Germany's armaments would outweigh Czechoslovakia's if worse came to worse. But theirs probably would not be the only ones in the balance. Lined up are symbols for the armaments of major powers that might be drawn into a conflict. Not indicated are armaments of such nations as Poland, Hungary, Rumania and Yugoslavia, all of which might be affected, nor economic factors, which often prove decisive in war. Figures are estimates.

Petit Larceny Charged

John Smothers, 28, a negro of Lake Katrine, was arrested Wednesday afternoon by Officer Bowers on a warrant charging the negro with petit larceny in stealing a tin box containing about $11 in cash from the Cities Service gas station at Broadway and Delaware avenue. Arraigned in police court this morning Smothers entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was set down for later by Judge Cahill.

Prayers for Peace

London, Sept. 15 (AP)—As Premier Chamberlain's plane droned over London and headed for Germany, the great west doors of Westminister Abbey slowly swung open this morning to admit a group of office workers who knelt around the tomb of the unknown soldier in prayers for peace Nurses from Westminster Hospital across the street visited the church after ending their night of duty. They took their place beside a crippled ex-soldier.

Find Car Abandoned

Michael Krakowski of 50 Hanratty street at 12.30 o'clock this morning reported to the police department that his Oldsmobile coach, parked in front of Brown's restaurant on Abeel street, had been stolen. A general alarm was sent out over the police radio, and at 12:40 o'clock the crew in one of the radio cars found the car abandoned in front of 63 Smith avenue.

"Bad News" to La Guardia

Prescott, Ariz., Sept 15 (AP)—Mayor Fiorella H. LaGuardia of New York mingled with boyhood friends in his old home town today and expressed hope he could find a job as a teacher of government "after my term ends in 1941." But, he added, "I won't say I'm definitely retiring. That's just my hope." He said Senator Tydings' victory in Maryland was "bad news" to him.

Banker Dead

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—William Herbert Judson, 76, chairman of the Board of Bankers Federal Savings and Loan Association, died yesterday of a heart ailment. He was born in Stratford, Conn.

Salt in His Blood

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Seagoing Bobby Stap, 13-year-old veteran of four stowaway trips totaling 20,000 miles, apparently will get his chance for a career before the mast. Justice Herbert A. O'Brien of the Domestic Relations Court said that the boy runaway, who disdains dry land classrooms, would be enrolled as a cadet in the New York Merchant Marine, the Board of Education willing. He made his decision after the boy's father, Frederick Stap, a ship's chief, told the court his ancestors had been sea captains for 200 years.

O'Connor Called Turncoat

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Rep. John O'Connor, whose rejection at the polls has been asked by President Roosevelt, was assailed as a political turncoat last night by James H. Fay, his New Deal opponent. O'Connor, a Tammany veteran, is a candidate for renomination in both the Republican and Democratic primaries Sept. 20 in the 16th Congressional district. In a radio speech Fay charged that O'Connor was a fit representative of the wealthy five per cent of the district but not of the poorer 95 per cent.

Ever Wonder Why You're Constipated?

Do you ever have days when you just have to drag yourself along, when you feel tired, sunk—because of that constipation? Then why not find out the real cause of your trouble?

What have you had to eat lately? Just things like meat, bread and potatoes? If that's it, you may not have to look any farther. It's likely your trouble is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If "bulk" is what you lack, your ticket is a dish of crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B$_1$.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Yoepp Stresses Pupils' Safety

Box 41, Hurley, New York,
September 14, 1938.

Editor, The Freeman:

Your correspondent is neither a parent, teacher or crank letter writer, but I wish to relate to you a rather nerve-racking experience, especially to one in my present illness. I relate it to you because I think it concerns each of you in a very vital way.

During the past noon hour several of your children were playing football at the Town Hall—which, because of certain individuals, passes as the "annex" to the Hurley "school." Suddenly, one youngster missed the ball, and as youngsters do the world over, dashed headlong across the street after his toy. Fortunately, the driver of the car had good control and was a quick thinker and owing to his good intellect your little "Johnnie"—nothing having happened I naturally do not know the lad's name—ate his supper in a very hearty manner at your home that evening. He perhaps didn't consider it sufficiently important to tell his family of the smiling, boastful way in which he told his playmates he "missed" the car! Little does he know that tonight he might be broken in body for life at a Kingston hospital, or just another "patient" at a local mortuary.

Perhaps it is my nervous ailment, but to me it seems this incident points out a powerful moral for the people of this community. Assuming that little "Johnnie" met up with a slow thinker behind the wheel of a car—and there are a multitude of us—and met death. I then wonder if it would be considered worth while by the taxpayers of this community to hold endless abortive school meetings, and spend hours arguing whether or not, for example, Albert E. Milliken is "old enough" to be an architect (when does an architect become of age? But honestly I heard it at a meeting), or whether Joe Doakes, architect, built a school in such and such town for $5,000 less, or whether the school should be of stone, brick, wood or cardboard; or whether the school should be at the lower, middle or upper end of the town, or to use an expression we will all recognize "we don't want no 'Democrat' money in Hurley." Again, charge it to my nervousness if you care to, I really don't think that as the undertaker finishes his work on Johnnie, Johnnie's little soul will feel that the people of Hurley gave him a fair break in life (what little there was of it) and then, an increase of $3.00 or $100 per thousand in the tax rate won't put little Johnnie into the school house that Hurley must some day have, be it stone or wood.

Maybe I should have just passed this incident over, but I am writing you ladies what I and little "Johnnie" think of a foolish situation I'm also sending a copy of this letter to The Freeman. I don't know, maybe you and the city editor of The Freeman will both consider the thoughts of my "almost run over" friend, Johnnie, and myself unworthy of consideration, but I would like to see you and the editor give him a "break," before it is too late, by moulding opinion in this town for a safe school, at least.

Respectfully yours,
BERNARD YOEPP, Jr.

Steady Increase in Insanity

Albany, N. Y, Sept. 15 (AP)—New York's mental Hygiene Department disclosed today, in charts and statistics going back for nearly a half century, a steady increase in insanity throughout the state A total of 79,189 patients were in state institutions last June 30, the department said, an increase of 2,834 over the preceding year and more than five times the number of victims recorded in the first tabulation in 1879.

An emergency operating room will be part of the completely equipped hospital on Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay throughout the 288 days of the World's Fair of the West.

Clocks with specially constructed pendulums of nickel steel have been developed, which require so little driving power that they can run for as many as 400 days on a single winding.

DOES ANOTHER WORLD WAR BREED HERE? Approach of Nov. 11, marking 20th anniversary since armistice that ended the last world war, finds Europe criss-crossed with fortifications, designed to hold back invading tanks and soldiers. With its cluster of munitions plants—branches of the powerful Skoda whose main works are at Pilsen—western Czechoslovakia is a prize much craved by Hitler. As the map shows, munition plants are near the Sudeten mountains region where live the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans over whom Hitler wishes to establish a "protectorate." Fears that Germany would attempt to swallow the Sudetic region gave all nations a severe attack of "world war jitters."

Otter Held Sacred Animal

Russians, Spaniards and Englishmen sailed round the world in tiny ships hunting the sea otter. They were so successful that they practically exterminated the animal. It was known in Biblical times and in old Sanskrit was called udra. The mid-European countries called it uder, odder and finally otter. The ancient Persians held it sacred. The man who killed an otter had to kill 10,000 frogs or 10,000 snakes in ancient Persia. That was because the otter killed frogs and snakes with which the land was overrun.

Anniversary Day Services Sunday At South Rondout

Next Sunday morning at 10:30 and afternoon at 2:30 members of the South Rondout Methodist will enjoy the Anniversary Day services. The Rev. Joseph Chasey, district superintendent of the Kingston District, will be the preacher at the morning service. Dinner will be served at 12:30 in the basement of the church. The Rev. Samuel Mac Cormac, pastor of the Highland Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the preacher at the afternoon service. His subject will be, "The Church Eternal." There will be special vocal and instrumental music at both services.

No exact date of the origin of religious worship being available, worshipers can only record the fact that in 1859 prayer meetings were held in a little schoolhouse. Soon after a Sunday school was organized, then moved to a hall on Middle street. Afterward to a little chapel belonging to a Mr. Guerney, and thence to the Engine House Hall. Finally it was moved to a Chapel which was dedicated January 16, 1887.

The first regular pastor of the "Peoples Union Church" was the Rev. J. H. Shephard in 1899. During the pastorate of Dr. W. H. Lofthouse, 1903-1908, the church was changed from a "Union" to an Incorporated Methodist Episcopal Church and since that date has received its preachers from the authority of the New York Conference.

Since the coming of the present pastor, the Rev. Richard C. Swaggerty the church property has been considerably enhanced. A new bathroom has been installed in the parsonage at the cost of several hundred dollars. New hymnals have been purchased as a memorial to Egbert Hyatt. Trodwell Wilson has presented the church with a new bulletin board. Ray Hildebrandt of Port Ewen has given a number of trees and shrubs which are being planted about the church and parsonage.

Belief!

I believe in laughter that sometimes covers tears;
I believe in love that lasts and deepens through the years.
I believe in beauty in all created things—
A building flow'r, a starlit night, a bird on soaring wings.
I believe in friendships that stand the test of time.
Believing all these things, I must believe God's love sublime.

Judge—I think you should be ashamed of yourself, being in this court so often!

Prisoner—Yes, but I'm not here any oftener than your honor is!

The famous lecturer said: "A slap on the back often contributes to a man's success!"

"Huh," spoke up the voice of the mother of a very prominent man, "but be sure its down low enough, done soon enough, and often enough — with a hairbrush."

Read It or Not

The word "monkey" comes from an Italian word meaning "old woman."

A peaceful man, strolling one evening through peaceful streets, suddenly heard a window open above him, and a good deal of shouting and scuffling. Looking up, he saw a desperate man halfway over the sill and a woman, possibly the man's wife, trying to pull him back to safety.

Considerably rattled, the stranger began shouting to the man, who was evidently attempting to commit suicide, to get back.

The struggle went on unabated, so he cried: "Police! Somebody get a policeman!"

At this the fellow upstairs grew quiet.

"Listen, you," he said menacingly, "you keep out of this. I do this almost every night."

A certain superintendent of schools makes occasional tours of inspection, winding up at a night school for colored adults.

A year ago he was called upon to congratulate an old colored woman. She had enrolled at the start of the course with a single avowed intent—to learn to write her name. She had succeeded, the course was at an end, and so she left.

This year the superintendent repeated his tour. The old woman had enrolled again, they told him.

"Why?" they had asked her.

"Ah's going to learn to write mah name," she said.

"But, you learned last year?"

"Ah knows it. But now—" her bosom swelled with pride—"now Ah done got married."

Evidently the stranger had something to learn about the language of the church.

At the conclusion of the Sunday morning service the affable visiting clergyman shook hands with a stranger and said:

Visiting Clergyman—Are you a regular communicant?

Young Man—Oh, yes. I take the 8:35 every morning into town.

There are some people built this way, says the Christian Science Monitor:

Passenger—Say, conductor, will you please help me off the train?

Conductor—Sure.

Passenger—You see, I'm stout, and have to get off the train backwards. The porter thinks I'm getting on, and gives me a shove on again. I'm five stations beyond my destination now.

Life Underwriters Will Meet at Houston

For the first time in its 49 year history, the National Association of Life Underwriters, trade association for America's life insurance agents, will come to Texas for its annual convention when over 2,000 of its members gather in Houston on September 19-23. The organization, second largest of the country's trade groups, will stage its meeting, labeled "the biggest life insurance show on earth," in conjunction with the Houston Association of Life Underwriters and eighteen similar units throughout Texas.

Over 35 of the nation's leading life underwriters will address the convention, which will probably be the largest and most spectacular in the half-century of its existence. A score of subsidiary meetings will also take place during convention week. The great new Sam Houston Coliseum will be crowded with conventioneers several times during the meeting, once to hear Senator Tom Connally talk on "Social Legislation and Tomorrow" on Tuesday evening, September 20, once to attend a gala "Mexican Fiesta," for which the Coliseum will be transformed into a Mexican village, on Thursday, September 22, and three times for general meetings on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

"The Gayest Time Since Forty-Nine" was the slogan describing the Gayway of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition which won a $1,000 prize.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Gold Mine

Connellsville, Pa., — Henry Park's gold fillings brought him mouthful of trouble.

He told Police Chief Andrew Thomas that three men knocked him unconscious in a freight car and yanked the gold fillings from his teeth with pliers.

In the Market

Richlands, Va.,—If you have a left eye for sale, Mo. Warner would like to buy it.

Warner, a blind merchant, offered to pay a "reasonable sum" for an optic after doctors told him they thought an eye grafting operation might restore his sight. He hopes to get the eye from a condemned convict.

Meet the Winner

Milton, Wash.,—Milton's new Republican Committeeman, Boston Curtis, won office here without the sign of a campaign. He collected his 51 votes without even offering a platform.

Boston Curtis, a mule, was entered in Washington's blanket primary election by Kenneth Simmons, Democratic mayor of Milton, who saw to it that Boston's hoofprint was attached to the filing notice and himself signed as witness.

Simmons said he wanted to demonstrate his belief many voters know not whom they support.

Expert Angling

Portland, Ore..—Portland has a "fisherman" who gets mighty good results without even the use of bait. He just uses a stick, a piece of string, a hook.

He even reels in cash.

Take his last effort for instance. He stuck his pole through R. E. Raynor's window and hooked some overalls containing $1.50 in cash.

Police found his fishing equipment outside the window.

2 tablespoons granulated sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
1 cup canned salmon
½ cup diced celery
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Tomato Puree

½ peck ripe tomatoes
1 cup chopped onions
2 cups diced celery and leaves
1 cup diced carrots
1 cup chopped sweet red pepper

Wash and quarter tomatoes after the blossom ends have been discarded. Peel onions and cut into slices. Dice celery and leaves. Scrape and slice carrots. Discard seeds and white pulp from peppers. Add rest of the ingredients to the prepared vegetables. Cover and allow to simmer for one hour. Strain. Reheat and boil 2 minutes. Fill sterilized hot jars and seal immediately.

Germs which have a biological urge to destroy each other will stage a "battle of the century" when placed under microscopes to be viewed by millions of visitors at next year's Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE S. JAGGER

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Taking a new lease on hope for European peace, the stock market bounded upward today to recover part of its wide losses the past two sessions, and then settled down to await developments in the Chamberlain-Hitler talk.

Falling in step with a rise in the principal European markets before trading started here, leading stocks were marked sharply higher in an opening rush to cover short positions and to catch the turn. The initial gains were shaved somewhat by profit-taking but generally prices held close to the rally tops near the third hour, and a trading lull interrupted the turmoil of speculation excited by the swift-moving European events.

Many were cheered by the belief Chamberlain and Hitler might find a formula for peaceful settlement of the German minority issue in Czechoslovakia. But traders mostly were disposed to be cautious until something definite came out of the historic meeting of the British and German leaders.

Copper, cotton, rubber and other staples extended an advance but wheat gave up part of its rise the last two days. Bonds recovered with stocks.

Up 1 to around 4 at the start were du Pont, Bethlehem Steel, Douglas, U. S. Steel, New York Central, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse, General Motors and Union Carbide. They traded in blocks ranging up to 5,000 shares.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

All Markets Trace An Erratic Course

With the continual shifting of international politics and news from central Europe world markets traced an erratic course all major markets being depressed. The London exchange led the decline with industrial average dropping between three and four points to the lowest in five years.

On the New York Exchange industrial stocks registered a wide swing as measured in the Dow-Jones tabulations. They opened up from Tuesday's close, showed a fair gain at noon, began to decline the next hour and at one o'clock were off 1.62 points. With the heaviest selling the fourth hour, when transactions totaled 790,000 shares out of the day's total of 2,820,000, the list was down over three points. Then, in the last hour, the course changed and some issues actually showed gains for the day. At the close industrials finished well above the day's lows, but showing a loss of 1.26 points, to 132.93. Rails lost 0.69 point for the day, down to 24.22; utilities lost 0.55 point, down to 17.50.

Business news, however, continued good.

The news that Premier Chamberlain of Great Britain had taken an unprecedented step in British diplomacy and would fly to Berchtesgaden, to confer with Adolph Hitler, brought renewed hope to financial centers. The news came after most financial and commodity markets had closed. The largest markets still open were those on the Pacific coast and there prices continued the rallying tendency which had marked the close of the New York market. On the San Francisco Exchange eastern issues were in demand and many closed the day above final New York quotations. There is a time differential of four hours between the New York and Pacific coast exchanges.

U. S. Government bonds rallied in late over-the-counter trading.

Wheat again was strong yesterday, up 1⅝ cents a bushel on the Chicago market and as much as five cents at Winnipeg. Rubber showed gains up to 16 points, cocoa to 17 points, cotton eight points and hides were 15 to 21 points higher. Domestic copper was up an eighth, to 10¼ cents a pound.

Steel operations show a sharp recovery over the Labor Day week. Youngstown operations may reach 47 per cent of capacity by the end of the week and steel production generally for the week ended 12 was placed at 45 per cent of capacity as against 41 per cent the previous week.

Revenue freight loadings are estimated to have been around 570,000 cars during Labor Day week, a more than seasonal drop from the 648,039 cars reported in the preceding week.

Southern Railway was in the black for August according to President Norris, gross revenues exceeding July by half a million dollars. In the first week in September the road showed a gain of about three per cent in gross revenues over the same week in 1937.

Dollar volume of Continental Can's sales in August is understood to have been largest for any month in the company's history. Indications are for fairly satisfactory results in September.

Montgomery Ward had profit of 85 cents a share on common for six months ended July 31; compares with $1.60 a share in corresponding period in 1937. Company is expected to show about normal earning power in second half of this year.

Retail trade in the metropolitan area is said to be running about ten per cent above a year ago in a majority of the large department stores. Sales of finished textile goods have increased.

The "big corn" record, so far as samples put on display hereabouts, made an outstanding advance Wednesday when three mammoth stalks were brought to the court house and stood up in a corner of the lobby for the inspection of interested admirers. According to a card attached the stalks are 14 feet, four inches in height and were grown on the Victor Cannon Ranch at Woodstock. Rotary Planning Entertainment of District Assembly

At the weekly luncheon meeting of Rotary, at the Governor Clinton this noon, plans were furthered for the entertainment of the District Assembly over the week-end.

Presidents and secretaries of the some 60 or more clubs in the districts will hold a dinner and meeting at the Governor Clinton Sunday night. The meeting will be continued on Monday at which time the District Governor will be present.

Following the luncheon today there was a showing of motion pictures by William O'Reilly, including a very interesting picture, with comments by Lowell Thomas, showing the work in the gold fields of New Guinea. Something like $5,000 a day is taken from the sand and gravel of the river bed and the refined gold, cast into bricks worth $15,000 each, is transported back to civilization by airplane. The same method of transportation is used for carrying men and equipment over the treacherous jungles, infested with murderous savages, back and forth to and from the scene of operations. These gold deposits are among the largest in the world.

Guests today included Dr. H. H. Snyder, Newburgh; Chester Hall, Westbrook, Md.; Lowell Gypson, Albany; Howard Newins, president of the Bay Shore, N.Y., club and Lloyd and George Kinsey of Phoenicia.

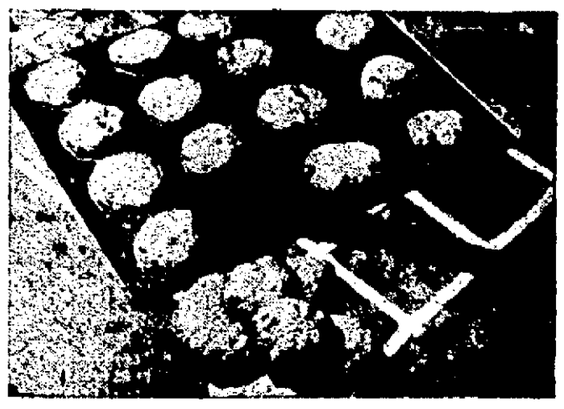
Cookie Crumbs

The sweet, spicy smell of baking cookies . . . September days wouldn't be complete without it. Nor would September menus be complete without crisp and crunchy, moist or chewy homemade cookies. What a grand finish cookies and fresh fruit make for spur-of-the-moment meals. And they always find a welcome nook in the lunch box. No, I haven't forgotten how good they taste with a tall sparkling pitcher of iced tea or lemonade—or a creamy glass of iced coffee.



SESAME SEED COOKIES

SESAME SEED COOKIES*

¾ cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons fat, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 egg, 1 cup roasted seasame seed and 1 cup seedless raisins.

Sift the dry ingredients together, except the sugar. Add the fat, sugar, milk, beaten egg, seeds and raisins. Stir until well mixed. Drop on a greased pan by teaspoonfuls, about 2 inches apart, and bake in a moderate oven (400°F.) until lightly browned—15 minutes.

TO ROAST SESAME SEEDS

Clean and wash seeds thoroughly, spread out and allow to dry at room temperature. Then place in a pan in a layer ¼ inch deep. Roast in oven (150°C.) for 25 minutes, stirring frequently.

TASTY OATMEAL COOKIES

3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 cups quick or regular rolled oats, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup yellow sugar, 1 cup triple-creamed shortening, 1 cup raisins, 2 eggs and ½ cup hot water.

Sift flour, soda, cinnamon and salt together. Add quick rolled oats (or run regular rolled oats through food chopper). Add the sugar. Cut in the shortening and stir in raisins. Beat eggs and add hot water slowly. Add to dough. Chill overnight. When ready to use, shape into small balls and flatten slightly before baking. If desired, the balls of dough may be rolled in chopped nuts or in coconut before flattening to provide several varieties. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) for 12 minutes. Yield: 6 dozen.

EVERYONE LIKES APPLES

Apples . . . apples . . . and more apples—yet one never tires of them. Variety of usage dispels monotony, I guess. Serve them fried or glazed with meats. Strained applesauce or grated raw apples make fine desserts. Of course, we're all familiar with apple pie and baked apples. But did you know that one could buy canned baked apples—ready to serve? I tried some the other day and found that the can contained four luscious apples all baked and sweetened, and just as perfect as could be. A grand fruit to serve for unexpected breakfast guests.

Hints

Clean white felt hats before storing with dry corn meal, powdered chalk or magnesia.

* * *

If a teaspoon of sugar is added to the water when boiling discolored cauliflower, it will become white.

* * *

Stuff children's shoes which have become very wet, and dry near a window, very slowly—never near a radiator or other high heat. When dry apply the right kind of shoe cleaner. Sometimes a little bit of wax on the sole will help restore shoes.

CEREAL APPLE BETTY

CEREAL APPLE BETTY

4 round wheat cereal biscuits, crumbled, 6 tablespoons melted butter, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 3 cups sliced tart apples.

Mix cereal crumbs, butter and sugar. Cover the bottoms of four individual baking dishes with mixture, then spread over that a layer of apples. Sprinkle with nutmeg and cinnamon. Repeat, holding ½ cup of crumbs for tops. Bake covered for 20 minutes, then uncovered for 20 minutes in moderate oven (350°F.). Serve with cream.

CHOCOLATE MINT RENNET-CUSTARD

1 package vanilla rennet powder and 1 pint milk.

Heat milk until luke-warm, remove from stove and add rennet powder, stirring until dissolved. Pour at once into dessert glasses and let stand without moving for 10 minutes. Chill. When ready to serve, mix marshmallow topping, chocolate sirup and a few drops of mint flavoring together, and serve sauce over desserts.

GRAPEFRUIT CELERY SALAD

1 envelope unflavored gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, ½ cup hot water, 1 cup grapefruit juice, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 12 whole nutmeats, ½ cup diced celery, 12 stuffed or ripe olives, sliced, and ¼ teaspoon salt.

Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatine on top of water. Add salt, sugar and hot water and stir until dissolved. Add grapefruit juice. Pour a little of the liquid jelly in individual molds that have been rinsed in cold water. Chill and when thickened slightly, arrange a ring of sliced olives with a nutmeat in the center of the jelly. When remaining jelly has stiffened somewhat, stir in the rest of the olives and celery and fill molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise and nutmeats.

GLAZED SPICED MEAT WITH NECTAR

1 can plum nectar, ½ cup yellow sugar, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 2 teaspoons thick seasoning sauce and 1 can spiced luncheon meat.

Combine all ingredients excepting meat, and cook slowly for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, place meat in oven (350°F.) and heat. Strain sauce over meat and bake 25 minutes, basting frequently. Serves 4.

The tables were placed under the trees on the grounds, on the porch and in the living room and children's playroom. Twenty-six tables were in play.—

A very happy atmosphere prevailed throughout the afternoon. Many guests who did not play cards came to see the house and on the tour of inspection every nook and corner was investigated.

During the afternoon a group of the children of the Home presented a program of dancing for the entertainment of the guests. The program was repeated three times in each room where guests were playing.

The proceeds of the benefit card party will be used toward providing furnishings for the Home, with particular plans for curtains for the dining and other rooms.

Presidents' Book Tastes Poles Apart, Librarian Reveals

Wilson Liked Fine Literature; Theodore Roosevelt Most Avid Reader.

WASHINGTON. — After a busy day in the White House, what does a President like to read? The man in a better position than anyone else to know says that the tastes of the last seven chief executives are as far apart as the poles.

Tom Marshall, dubbed "Librarian of the White House" back in Theodore Roosevelt's administration, has not only catalogued many Presidents' personal libraries, but checked out the books they wanted from the Congressional library. Marshall has just retired after 38 years of service.

Woodrow Wilson "was very careful about his reading—chose only fine literature," while with President Harding, "all was grist that came to his mill—good and bad," the 72-year-old veteran recalled.

An ex bookbinder with library training, Marshall joined the staff in McKinley's time as a messenger. There were only ten White House employees then. Letters were written in long hand. Tom was alternately doorkeeper, newspaper clipper, social bureau assistant, file clerk and general handy man.

Roosevelt I Loved Books.

President McKinley, he said, wasn't much of a reader. "He let Mark Hanna do most of it for him."

"But Theodore Roosevelt loved books more than any man I ever saw," he continued. "I've known him to absorb a book's content in an hour and discuss it page by page with the author. But no trash, mind you."

Theodore Roosevelt once took Marshall to Oyster bay when he moved his library there, the little white mustached man recalled. "He was so devoted to those books that he helped me rip the boards off the boxes down in the basement and carry the books upstairs to the library."

President Taft, Marshall said, "had a legal complex. I honestly believe he never read a book while in office but legal books."

Calvin Coolidge measured up to his reputation as a "very austere man," who had no use for anything frivolous or humorous.

Roosevelt II Prefers Stamps.

Marshall said he had done little library work during the Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt administrations. But Hoover read very little—scientific things mostly," he said.

"And I don't see how President Roosevelt has any time to read," Marshall observed. "He's the durndest stamp collector I ever saw—even has them bring them to him in bed."

Divers Reach 500 Feet Using Synthetic Air

WASHINGTON.—The navy department has revealed that the possible depth to which deep-sea divers can descend safely has been extended to 800 feet by the use of synthetic air.

World record sea dives—to 500 feet under artificial conditions and to more than 400 feet under actual conditions—have been made by navy divers using standard rubber diving suits and a new mixture of helium and oxygen for breathing purposes.

Navy officials said the new synthetic atmosphere is the result of more than 10 years research. They said that the oxygen-helium mixture "considerably advances the art of deep diving" and has no harmful effects upon the diver.

The 500-foot depth was attained by Master Divers J. H. McDonald, Las Animas, Colo., and William Badders, Annapolis, Md., in the Washington navy yard diving tank. Sea conditions were simulated by applying air pressure to the water in the tank equivalent to sea pressure at 500 feet.

Man Rescued From Bog, Mired to Neck for Week

BELLEVILLE, ONT. — Hugh Jones, 44-year-old farmer, was rescued from a bog in which he had been mired to the neck for six days. Clinging to a log with one arm, Jones was forced to watch searchers pass within a few feet of him. With only his head visible above the muck and prevented from crying out by the pressure of the mud on his chest, he was unable to attract their attention.

The efforts of several men were required to extricate him from the morass. He is suffering from exhaustion and starvation.

50,000 Carp Fattened On Corn for Markets

FOND DU LAC, WIS.—The conservation commission put 50,000 carp on a diet of soaked corn to fatten them up for the eastern market. When the last shipment arrived in New York, dealers complained that the fish were too thin. The carp, ranging from 4 to 35 pounds in weight, were seined from Lake Winnebago to protect game fish and kept in land-locked ponds and marshes. They are fed 1,100 pounds of corn daily.

A gentleman feeling a bit fed up with life decided to commit suicide by hanging himself. A friend came into the room and discovered him standing with a rope tied around his waist, and he inquired what he was trying to do. The gentleman told him he was taking his own life.

Friend—But why do you have the rope tied around your waist?

Gentleman—Well, when I tied it around my neck it choked me.

Let There Be Fish

Yes, homemakers, let there be fish—plenty of it—often. That is, if you would provide your family with the most nourishing of foods at a minimum of expense. For it's difficult to find a food that will provide more essential food elements at the same cost.

Serving fish saves lots of bother, too, for one can always keep fish on hand ready for the planned meal as well as the emergency. Swordfish, salmon, tuna, crab, shrimp, lobster and codfish, as well as many other varieties, now come in cans of various sizes. But let's not overlook the possibilities of frozen fish and salt packed fish. You'll find these economical to use, too.

The fish illustrated below came from the depths of the North Atlantic; but is packed in cans so that inland homemakers may enjoy its full flavor and tender flesh.

CORN, BEEF AND CABBAGE

BROILED FRESH MACKEREL

BROILED FRESH MACKEREL

1 can North Atlantic mackerel, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons finely chopped chives or onions

Open and drain can of mackerel. Split and remove bones. Lay on buttered broiler pan, pan rack, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter and brown lightly under moderate heat. Remove fish to hot platter, place pan over heat, add 2 tablespoons butter and let it cook until nearly black. Then add vinegar and chives or onions. Pour over fish and serve immediately. Serves 6.

Filling Foods For Frosty Days

The tingle of frost quickens the appetite and makes a new version of the "Dinty Moore" favorite more than welcome.

Corn, Beef and Cabbage

One 2-pound head of cabbage, 1½ cups boiling water, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ¼ cup melted butter, one 12-ounce can corned beef and 1 can whole kernel corn.

Cut cabbage down through center into six sections, leaving head intact at core end. Tie loosely with string and place in boiling water to which 1 teaspoon salt has been added. Cover and steam for approximately 30 minutes, or until tender but not soft. With sharp knife remove core which protrudes in center. Remove cabbage to platter and remove string. Pour melted butter over cabbage. Meantime heat contents of cans of corned beef and corn together with remaining ¼ teaspoon salt. Pour in center of cabbage on platter. Serve with hot, rich white sauce to which a bit of horseradish has been added. Serves 6.

Red Cross Asks Assistance

As the winter season approaches, the Ulster County Chapter American Red Cross will have many calls for warm sweaters and we are appealing to those who have the time and care to knit to assist us in this work. The Chapter has purchased some yarn for this purpose and will furnish directions if necessary to those who desire them. Possibly there are many who have odds and ends of worsted. These can be utilized to excellent advantage by knitting 6 inch squares, and joining them together to make afghans for covering men in the wheel chairs in the Veterans Hospitals, and also on their beds. Join eight squares one way, and 12 squares the other way making an afghan four by six feet. Those who desire to assist in this work, may call at the Red Cross Office, 260 Fair street upstairs, any morning, for worsted and direction.

New York—Traffic experts of the New York World's Fair 1939 and those of the New York Police Department are completing plans for a directional sign system to enable motorists from out of town to make their way through the city to the Fair grounds without any possibility of becoming lost. On main thoroughfares leading into the city information booths are to be erected to provide answers to any sort of traffic question.

Broadway "Little Tough Guy," showing Helen Parrish as the sister of Billy Halop, trying to save him from the influence of gangdom. The "Dead End" Kids are the stars of the picture.

Playing opposite to her are Henry Fonda and George Brent. Also in the cast are Margaret Lindsay, Fay Bainter, Donald Crisp, Richard Cromwell and other noted players.

Tomorrow

Kingston "Boy Meets Girl," with Jimmy Cagney, the screen's roughneck, Pat O'Brien, Marie Wilson and Ralph Bellamy.

Broadway. Same and preview. The Alaskan drama, "Spawn of the North," is the story of the men who "go down to the sea in ships" in the icy waters of the Artic, a story most Americans know very little about, but which captures the imagination every time it is mentioned. Although it is set in the 20th century, the story depicts present conditions, the titanic struggle between fishermen and sea raiders, Alaska's most serious problem for decades. In the picture George Raft leads one faction and Henry Fonda the other. Dorothy Lamour is the hotelkeeper of the Alaskan village, playing the first big dramatic role of her career. Others in the picture are John Barrymore, Lynne Overman, Akim Tamiroff and Louise Platt.

Orpheum. Double features "Heroes of the Hills", and "Come on Leathernecks". Richard Cromwell is the star in the story about Uncle Sam's Devildogs, depicted as a cocky, headstrong graduate of West Point who wants to quit the marines and enter professional football. How the combined efforts of Marsha Hunt in the feminine lead, Bruce MacFarlane and Robert Warwick finally convince him to stay in the corps forms the climax to an exciting plot.

Chamberlain and Hitler Meet

himself ready to help the Sudeten Germans get their rights. It nearly reached the breaking point yesterday when Czechs and Sudetens fought and killed each other on Sudeten soil, and European governments wondered whether the time had come to order their heavily reinforced armies into action.

There were many possibilities as to which lines their interview might take.

The old conjecture about a four-power peace pact of Italy and Germany with Great Britain and France was revived. Another was some sort of German-British understanding, which Hitler has long desired.

Autonomy demands or desires for union with Germany of the Sudeten Germans, Germany's foreign relations, Nazi and British intentions warlike and peaceful—these were the main topics, although in London it was said Chamberlain left with no precise formula.

Berlin and London, each in its own way, agreed the interview could not be one-sided. World diplomats were divided on points like the wisdom and prestige involved. Germany was proud that the prime minister of Great Britain asked to come here.

Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Hitler's foreign minister, was quoted as saying the personal meeting of the two statesmen might lead to a solution of the Sudeten German question as well as to an understanding between the German and British nations.

Henlein Demands Annexation

Prague, Sept. 15 (AP)—Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein issued a proclamation today demanding annexation of the Sudeten German regions of Czechoslovakia by Germany.

The proclamation, which was addressed to Sudeten Germans and Germans in the Reich, declared "it is definitely impossible for Sudeten Germans and Czechs to live in the same state."

"The Sudeten Germans want to return to our home in the Reich," it said, complaining that self-determination had been denied them in 1919.

"The Sudeten Germans have never renounced the right of self-determination. God bless us in our just fight."

The proclamation was broadcast through Germany and was transmitted to the Czechoslovak government by Henlein.

It was issued at Eger, near the German frontier, just a few hours before Great Britain's prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, was scheduled to talk with Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany on the Sudeten crisis.

It assailed methods used by the Czechoslovak government in efforts to crush disorders which have caused at least 23 deaths in Sudeten areas in the past three days.

The Proclamation

"My compatriots, as a man whom you trust and conscious of my responsibility, I proclaim to the whole world that the use of machine-guns, armored cars and tanks against defenseless Sudeten Germans has reached the highest point of Czech oppression.

"Thereby the Czech people have demonstrated before the whole world that it is definitely impossible for Sudeten Germans and Czechs to live in the same state. The experience of 20 years of oppression and above all the party sacrifices of the past few days make it my duty to declare:

"1—In the year 1919 we were denied the promised right of self-determination and against our wills were forced into the Czech state.

"2—Without at any time renouncing our right for self-determination, we have attempted, by giving frequent sacrifices, to find a proper place in the Czech state.

"3—All our efforts to persuade the Czech people and its responsible leaders to make honorable and just compromises have failed because of their irreconcilability.

"In this hour of Sudeten German extremity I direct to you, the German people and the entire civilized world:

"We wish to live as free German men! We want to work at peace in our homes! We want to return to our home in the Reich! God bless us in our just fight!"

The cabinet immediately began to study the proclamation at Prague and indicated an answer would be given, possibly this afternoon.

Meanwhile, the government dispatched more troops and tanks to suppress disorders in the Sudeten regions, the death toll of which was not yet fully known.

Divide Czech, Says Italy

Rome, Sept. 15 (AP)—Italy advocated today that Czechoslovakia be divided into racial states "to save Europe a war."

This would be accomplished by a series of plebiscites.

The proposal was in an open letter to Viscount Runciman, British negotiator of the minorities dispute at Prague, published in Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, and with authorship generally attributed to him.

The result, the unsigned letter said, would be:

"Annexation pure and simple of brother peoples" (the Sudeten Germans with Germany).

For the other minorities "so-called equal cantons or something of the sort."

The proposal was made as the news came of Premier Chamberlain's decision to talk personally with Chancellor Hitler of Germany on ways to peace, and the press was quick with praise.

Rarely, if ever, since the Ethiopian war cooled relations with Britain, had the Italian press spoken so glowingly of an English statesman.

"Chamberlain has intervened with his initiative, truly worthy of a statesman of high European conscience," said Popolo Di Roma.

The paper interpreted the trip to mean the British premier was convinced the Czech crisis must be settled not with Prague but with Chancellor Hitler.

The letter to Runciman held to this thesis, that President Benes of Czechoslovakia "has lost the race," and that the "game here (presumably war to maintain the republic) is not worth the candle."

Italy could be friendly with the "Bohemia of tomorrow," said the letter, although "it is practically impossible for Italy today to have a policy of friendship with Czechoslovakia."

Plebiscite Excluded

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP)—The French government placed its hopes of peace today on the efforts of Premier Chamberlain of Britain to solve the Czechoslovak crisis by his personal talk with Adolf Hitler.

Although the French indicated Premier Daladier had taken the initiative in urging Chamberlain into the extraordinary step, sources close to the foreign office said they had little idea what turn the interview might take.

These sources said only that the question of a plebiscite for the Sudeten Germans of Czechoslovakia had been excluded.

This point of view was made known late last night, and contradicted a growing belief in diplomatic quarters yesterday that France was ready to support such a plan—by which the Sudetens could vote to be annexed by Germany.

While French commentators were unanimous in praising "courage" of the British premier's move, they were divided on the chances of his persuading Hitler not to use force to gain the Sudeten demands, which now center on their right of "self determination."

The majority, however, considered the mere fact that Hitler had agreed so quickly to see Chamberlain might mean an eventual peaceful settlement.

The main hope of peace, according to semi-official governmental circles, rested in the feeling that until now Hitler had believed—or been permitted by his advisors to believe—that France and Britain would not fight.

Chamberlain's visit was said to be designed primarily to change that impression.

The war ministry's plan for calling up an additional 2,000,000 reservists was said to be ready. France already has an estimated 2,000,000 men under arms.

The Superior War Council continued in almost uninterrupted session.

F.D.R. Watchful Of Events Abroad

Aboard President Roosevelt's train, Sept. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt kept in communication with the state department today while speeding toward Washington for a review of the European situation.

Mr. Roosevelt also received reports from Rochester, Minn., regarding the condition of his son, James, who is recuperating from a stomach operation at the Mayo Clinic.

The Chief Executive is scheduled to speak in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Saturday at a celebration of the 150th anniversary of New York's ratification of the Constitution.

Should the critical European situation grow worse, the President possibly would cancel the speech. There was some speculation, however, that he would take advantage of the occasion to make some statement on affairs abroad.

The President, who left Rochester yesterday morning, had telephones put aboard his special car at several station stops. He received hour-by-hour reports from the state department on the Sudeten crisis, and arranged to take personal charge of foreign relations on his return to Washington. Stopping at Chicago in mid-evening, Mr. Roosevelt conversed with Secretary Hull and with the Mayo Clinic.

Leaving Rochester, Mr. Roosevelt told a station crowd that the seriousness of the European situation had caused him to decide to travel directly to Washington.

He had arranged earlier to return to the summer White House at Hyde Park, N. Y.

156th Artillery Parades Saturday

Kingston's two National Guard units, Headquarters Battery and Combat Train of the First Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, and Battery A, will take part in the anniversary celebration in Poughkeepsie Saturday, commemorating the 150th year of the ratification of the Constitution of the United States.

Captain C. N. Behrens will be in command of the Kingston delegation of the National Guard, leaving the armory on North Manor avenue at 1 o'clock. The Guardsmen have been ordered to assemble at the armory at 12 noon to prepare for the trip to Poughkeepsie in the army motor trucks. Full paraphernalia will be taken to Poughkeepsie, including the French .75 mm field pieces.

In Poughkeepsie, the Kingston units of the Guard will rest on Church street, at Academy. Orders to march will be given at 2:30 o'clock, and the Artillery will fall in the First Division, with the 16th Infantry from Governors Island.

Members of the various military organizations in the state, and public officials of the city of Poughkeepsie will take part in the parade, also the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and United Spanish War Veterans.

Detroit, Sept. 15 (AP)—Seven thousand employes of the Chrysler Corp. Plymouth division were sent home today because of a strike at the Briggs Manufacturing Co. shut off the supply of automobile bodies. Negotiations were in progress between the United Automobile Workers and Briggs officials.

To Get Pay Cut

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP)—More than 900,000 employes of the nation's major railroads were formally advised today their pay checks would become 15 per cent slimmer at 12:01 a. m. Saturday, October 1. Announcement of the effective day of the cut originally was made by the carriers joint conference committee September 10. The committee said the action of the individual railroads today in advising representatives of each employe organization of the order was a followup. The railroad workers are taking a strike vote this month, following collapse of efforts to mediate the wage dispute.

Kingston High Gridders in 1st Scrimmage Wednesday

Coach Warren Kias' Kingston High School's football squad tasted its first contact work yesterday afternoon at the Athletic Field when the Regulars engaged the Yannigans in a scrimmage. With Jimmy Ashdown and Vince Stoll starring, the Regs copped the tilt 12 to 0.

For the past two weeks the Maroon warriors have been going at it in full power and although last year's power will be sorely missed, the Kiasmen look good.

The Regulars opened with the following lineup: Clark, Staubla, McCullough, Studer, Messinger, Leahy, Von Essen, Cole, Ashdown, DeWitt and Stoll. For the subs Brunner, Mazzuca, Cook, Darling, Rose, Garland, Tsitsera, Goodsell, Celuch, Perry and Davis made up the positions.

After five minutes of unsuccessful power work the Regs took to the air and advanced to the subs' territory on a neat forward from Vince Stoll to Ashdown, who was nailed on about the 10 yard stripe. Two plunges netted up to the four and from there Ashdown soared through for the score.

With Georgie Celuch and Davis lugging the ball for the subs and doing a good job of it, their opponents were pushed back to their own 30. The subs really got hot when Celuch nabbed Davis' flip but it went for naught on the following play. Davis faded back and shot a pass out to Celuch on the right side of the line. Bill Cole, of the first stringers, came plowing in and made a neat interception and continued to reel off a spectacular run to the opponents' 20. On the play, however, Cole was smacked hard and it looked serious when he failed to regain his feet after Coach Bruckert worked on him.

After the practice Coach Kias opined that a good ball club can be made out of his material. As to the highlights of the drill, George Celuch, Bill Von Essen, Vince Stoll and Jim Ashdown appeared to be in fine shape for a strenuous schedule such as awaits the Kiasmen.

Uhl, Komosa, Zoller and Brown Lead the City League Pitchers

James "Toddy" Uhl, Leo "Teeny" Komosa and Buddy Zoller paced the City League second-half pitching parade, the trio having perfect pitching records of two victories apiece for a 1.000 percentage. Secretary Jim Geoghan's latest batch of second half statistics disclose the twirling threesome deadlocked for the top-ranking mound post. Uhl, Komosa and Zoll boasted undefeated records in the score book, but Joe "Big Train" Brown's sensational flinging feats dominated the moundsmen.

Brown copped most of the hurling laurels, climaxing a pitching comeback during the second half homestretch. The Knights' Big Train flipped a no-hit, no-run classic and followed up with a one-hitter to tide the Caseys over during the crucial last week. Brownie buzzed his fireball past 22 enemy batters to take the strikeout title, and allowed but three hits in 17 innings on the hill. Joe flipped in three contests, winning two and dropping one to Hedricks in the last half opener.

Uhl, Brown's pitching partner, entered the City League hall of fame by coming up with the second no-hitter of the second half in the Kyanize finale. Toddy tanned 13 hitters and walked but five while Leo Komosa, working in 14 innings allowed but 7 hits in three tilts. Zoller took part in two clashes, allowing but five runs on 18 hits as he issued only three walks.

Charley Neff, Brewers ace, racked up 18 strikeouts in two starts for secondary honors in the "K" department. Schoolboy Bush and Julius Chick sent an even dozen down swinging. Chick, Swarthout and Neff were most liberal, handing out 10 walks apiece to the rival willow wielders. Brown and Swarthout were the hardest workers out on the mound, each hurling 17 complete innings. Swarthout allowed the most bingles off his delivery, 19 in all, while Zoller and Bush were touched for 18 safeties. Four-star pitching predominated during the hotly-contested last half, with Uhl and Brown's no-hitters, one-hitters by Brown, Chick and Charley Neff. Two-hit performances were registered by Thomas, Komosa (2), Uhl and Brown with Bush twirling a three-hit effort.

Maroon Track Team Works Out

Yesterday afternoon Loyrne Connick, coach of Kingston High School cross country runners, called the opening session for his boys and with 16 men reporting for duty, the majority of them veterans, the 1938 season should be written successfully.

Those that reported are Captain Max Toffel, Jess Shultis, the Maroon's demon speedster; Johnny Bailey, Clift Parslow, Babe Markel, Frank Norton, Harry Mickle, Mel Samuels, Ernie Ryan, Bill Tucker, Vince Norton, Johnny Kelse, Joey Toney, Bob Jackson and Clarence Post.

The Connickmen will take the field this year as a direct opposite to the 1937 schedule. Connick was blessed only with the veteran cinder man, Jess Shultis, but despite this, came through with some exciting results. Now Coach Connick has a batch of experienced men who can be relied upon. Undoubtedly they will will make one of the finest clubs ever to represent Kingston High, it is thought.

According to the popular mentor four matches are tentatively arranged for the ensuing year, with Monticello as the opener. Others are Arlington, Bard College and Beacon.

This afternoon was to open the training period for the Connickmen and as he stressed it at yesterday's session, the Maroon runners will have about three full weeks of practice.

The complete tentative schedule follows:

October 7—Monticello (away).
October 14—Arlington (here).
October 21 — Bard College (away).
October 27—Beacon (here).

UPSET AS GIANTS UPSET PIRATES TWICE

Catcher Al Todd of the Pirates leaped on Alex Kampouris of the Giants for a plate putout in the first game of a doubleheader at New York. The Giants won both ends, 3-0 and 10-3 and thereby sliced the Pittsburgh National League lead to 2½ games.

Johnny Goodman Riding High in the GolfChampionship

Oakmont, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP)—Johnny Goodman looked over the wreckage of rain-drenched Oakmont today and decided he was a lucky guy.

The ex-Omaha caddy came to the National Amateur Golf Championship with his worst season in ten years behind him.

But as the title race entered the third round today, Johnny was riding high.

Goodman hustled to a pair of 4 and 3 victories yesterday with such fine golf against the pelting rain that he was over par but one shot on each round on what is rated as one of the five toughest golf courses in the world.

The dark horses, still operating behind every tree and bunker today though the field of 163 starters now totaled 16, cleared the way for Johnny in his bracket, the upper. As five of the Walker Cup players, among them Charles Richardson Yates, the British amateur champion from Jaw-Juh, fell, the defending champ found seven players in his bracket.

They were "Sonny" Fraser, Atlantic City, N. J.; Pat Abbott, a Hollywood extra; Walter Blevins, a night watchman from Kansas City, who were in the top quarter and Dick Chapman, Greenwich, Conn.; Tommy Suffern Tailer, social registerite from New York, and a tall, thin unknown named Jimmy French from San Francisco, his third round toe.

Billows Upset

Of the group surrounding Goodman, Tailer, Chapman and Blevins were the hottest. Today, Tailer tackled Chapman and Blevins met Joe Thompson, a Canadian, who escorted Sandy Somerville, 1932 champ, and young Freddy Haas, Jr., New Orleans, to the side lines. Fraser meets Abbott, who accounted for Ray Billows, Walker Cupper from Poughkeepsie, 2 and 1, in one of the many big upsets.

The lower bracket, on form, had all the thunder. In it were Edwin Kingsley, a little guy with specs from Magna, Utah, who beat Yates, 2 and 1; Wilfred Crossley, Dedham, Mass., his rival today; Medalist Gus Turner Moreland, Peoria, Ill., who meets Melvin Harbert, another virtual unknown from Syracuse, N. Y.; Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn, New York Metropolitan champ; Willie Turnesa, New York, and Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati, who is favored to meet Goodman in the finals.

Bud Ward, Olympia, Wash., and Reynolds Smith, Dallas, made it five out of seven defeated Walker Cup players in yesterday's heavy casualties. Ward was beaten by Art Doering, Jr., Chicago, who was licked by Chapman; Smith was dumped by Bob Bromnell, Duke sophomore from Norbeck, Md., who then was trimmed by Harbert, who sneaked in via the play-offs.

Giants Take Two Games To Land in 3rd Place Tie With Cincinnati Reds

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Those forgotten New York Giants took both ends of a doubleheader from the "choked up" Pittsburgh Pirates, yesterday.

Thus was continued the happy custom of never allowing a dull moment in this daffy National League chase, for the Chicago Cubs, by whipping Boston's Bees, climbed to within 2½ games of the top, and the Giants moved to a third-place tie with Cincinnati's Reds, who split a twin bill with Brooklyn.

As a result of the silly set of developments yesterday, the race looks something like this:

Pittsburgh leading 21 games to play.

Chicago 2½ games behind 18 games to play.

Cincinnati 3½ games behind 18 games to play.

New York 3¼ games behind 18 games to play.

Of course, the Pirates, boasting a lead, are still the boys to beat, but they can't stay up there if they go through many more days like yesterday. Prince Hal Schumacher, sore arm and all, "sinker-balled" them to defeat, 3-0, in the first game. In the nightcap, the Giants just sent a seven-run blast over in the second inning and coasted in at 10-3.

A homer by Gabby Hartnett with the bases loaded gave the Cubs a 6-3 margin over the Bees, but the Bostons disputed the hit as being just a foul ball and finished the game under protest.

The Reds dropped the Dodgers, 8-4, in a doubleheaded nightcap after the Brooklyns won the opener, 6-2 and the Cardinals crushed the Phillies, 12-9 and 3-2.

Yanks Need Four

The American League race saw the Yankees' final game of the year with Cleveland rained out, but the Yanks need only four wins to clinch the pennant. Boston's second-place Red Sox belted the Tigers, 9-2, behind Joe Heving. In the only other game that escaped the weather man, the Athletics nipped the Browns, 4-3.

Mercantile Plans for the Coming Season, DeWitt Chosen President

At the meeting of the Mercantile Bowling League Wednesday night in the Y. M. C. A. plans were discussed for the coming season, and Edward DeWitt, A. B. C. tourney prize winner, was elected president of the loop.

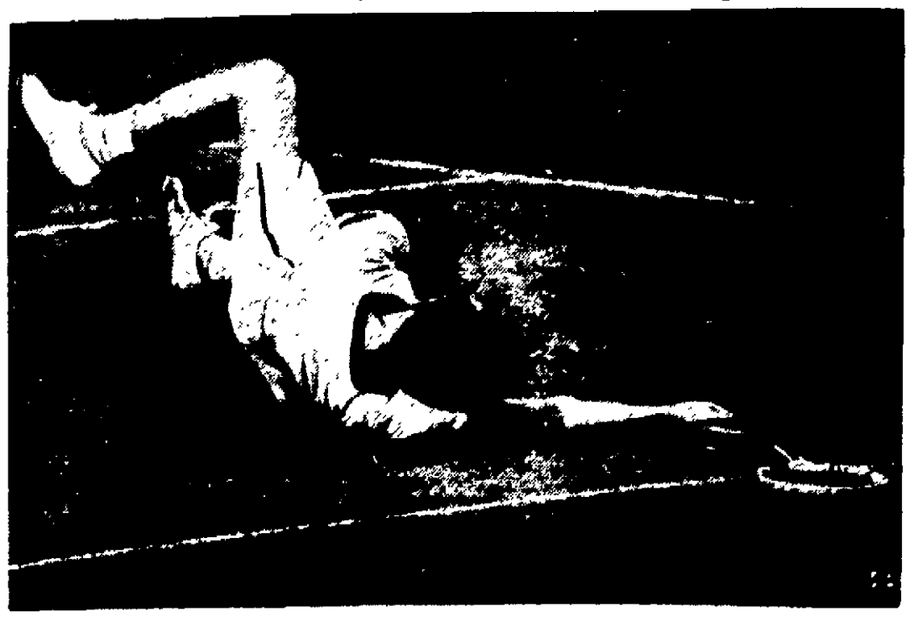
President DeWitt asked for the wholehearted cooperation of every member in the league, and promised that he'd do his part as leader to carry the circuit through to a successful climax at the end of the season.

This morning Harry Hutton, secretary, reported that he hoped to list 24 teams in the three divisions of the league—American, National and International. A new team, the Central Hudson, will enter the American this year.

The officers of the Mercantile organization, besides President DeWitt, are Walt Hubbard, vice-president; Harry Hutton, secretary; and Ernest LeFevre, treasurer.

The next meeting of the league will be held Wednesday night, September 28, starting at 7.30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. All team captains are asked to make a special effort to be present.

BITSY FLOPPED, BUT HE ROSE TO CONQUER



Bryan "Bitsy Grant," Atlanta's giant-killing mite, played in character in the national singles championships at Forest Hills, L. I. Despite this tumble, Bitsy, who was seeded eighth, got up to give high-ranking Adrian Quist of Australia a 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5 licking and gain the quarter-final round.

Another boxing card that is expected to have the fans cheering from the opening gong to the final tap of Mort Finch's hammer on the bell at the ringside will be presented Friday night in the municipal auditorium, featuring two champions.

Dom Perfetti, Diamond Belt titleholder, will come down from Amsterdam to meet Jimmy Morrow of New York in one of the top five rounders, and Sergeant Charlie Perry, light heavyweight champ of the Adirondack A. A. U., will exchange punches with Buddy Moore of George Gainford's New York Golden Gloves stable.

"Moore will give Perry the same sort of lesson he got from Bradley Lewis when I promised to bring somebody to Kingston to end the Sarge's winning streak," said Gainford. Perry is in better shape now than ever, and hopes to continue his winning streak, after a layoff of several months.

Another match on the card that is expected to help fill the auditorium to overflowing is that in which Charlie Roberts of New York will trade leather with Carmine Fatta, the Newburgh dynamo, who has run up four straight wins in a row over Mario Severino, Frankie Mirabile, Manuel Rousa and none other than Steve Kukol of Binghamton, national lightweight champion.

Katta is a favorite in Kingston because of his slam-bang style, his punching ability and his willingness to keep up a pile driving pace all through the fight.

The full card of scraps for Friday follows.

Moogy Marchese, former U. S. Army champion in Hawaii, now of Schenectady, vs. Bobby Smith, New York Golden Glove heavyweights.

Sergeant Perry, Kingston, vs. Buddy Moore, New York, light-heavyweights.

Fair Street Reformed Softies Church Champs

Behind the very effective pitching of Harold Clayton aided by an error in the second inning with the bases loaded Fair Street Reformed Church softies won the City Church League championship title Wednesday evening by defeating the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church team 7 to 4. The only runs which the Clinton avenue players harvested was in the first when Kuehn was handed a base on balls, Myers went to first on a fielder's choice and Kuehn was out at second. Hyatt hit and Baltz who followed also garnered a hit to load the bases. Then Crist pushed out a beautiful home run to score their only runs of the game.

After the first inning the Fair Street players were never in danger and Clayton had absolute control of the situation turning back the Clinton avenue players with but three hits in the last six innings. Clayton allowed seven hits.

After the four runs scored in their first time at bat Clinton avenue was never in a threatening position although a rally was threatened at one stage when a poor throw to first by Newkirk, Jr., gave the Clinton avenue players encouragement.

Following Clinton Avenue's lead the Fair Street players gathered a run in the first by Newkirk, Jr., when Johnston, Clayton and Bill Bush each gathered a hit after Newkirk had been given a pass. In the second Fair Street scored five runs through good stick work and a costly error. Meeker hit, Newkirk, Sr., also was safe on a hit. Newkirk, Jr., after hitting was out on a fielder's choice at second putting Johnson on first. Winne and Clayton each gathered a hit and Bill Bush's triple was responsible for the "big five" which scored in that inning when he drove in Johnson, Winne and Clayton.

Greek letter sororities at the Florida State College for Women decided in 1938 not to take any members who had not averaged C in their high school or college study.

Americans in Tennis Command

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP)—Foreign competitors were spending more time around the press box asking for the latest "war" news from Europe than in watching the matches as the national tennis championships reached the quarter-final stage today.

Except for a pair of Australians, Jack Bromwich and Harry Hopman, they all had been eliminated from the men's title hunt, leaving six Americans in virtual command of the situation.

Henner Henkel was the only German sitting in the players' stand. He was ordered to return home a fortnight ago, after the German Davis Cup team lost to the Australians in the inter-zone final, but he has lingered here as a spectator.

The three British stars, Charles Hare, Ronald Shayes and Eric Pilby, said they yet had received no word from British consular authorities here, and the Frenchmen, Jacques Brugnon, Yvon Petra and Bernard Destremeau, said the same.

Top Interest

Top interest in the tournament today was centered on the quarter-final tilt between Gene Mako and Gilbert Hunt, Jr., both unseeded. Mako, who knocked off Franjo Puncec of Yugoslavia in his previous match, says he will play his famous doubles mate, Don Budge, in Sunday's final.

The other men's duel was between Bromwich and Joe Hunt, young American Davis Cup team alternate, with Bromwich a decided favorite.

Two women's quarter-final matches paired Dorothy Bundy against Madame Rene Mathieu of France, and Margot Lumb of England against Nancy Wynne of Australia.

Budge left little doubt in anybody's mind that he is the pappy of the amateurs by the manner in which he poured it on luckless Charlie Hare yesterday in three sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0. Budge still hasn't lost a set in his fourth major championship.

Little Bryan Grant, Jr., ordered by his physician a month ago to abandon tennis, defeated Adrian Quist of Australia, second-seeded on the foreign list.

Sidney Wood, Jr., eliminated the last of the Europeans, Franjo Kukuljevic of Yugoslavia, in three sets.

German Craft Leads in Race

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 15 (AP)—The wind held from start to finish yesterday in the second race of the International Star Class championship and the Pimm, trim craft representing the Hamburger Flotte of Germany, led the parade of 22 craft home.

In the second place at the finish of the ten and one-quarter mile race over a triangular course was the Gale from the southern Lake Michigan fleet. The Gale won the opening day's classic.

Walter Von Hutschler sailed the Pimm across the line one minute and 2s seconds ahead of the Gale yesterday with the home-built Bambunctious from the Santa Monica, Calif., fleet in third place.

Victory for the German craft put the two leaders in a tie at 43 points each at the end of the two races, with the Stormy, of Newport Harbor, Calif., and sailed by C. F. Baxter, in second place for the series with 36 points.

Fifth boat to finish was Star Dust, Barnegat Bay, sailed by C. W. McNelly, Jr., followed by the Mercury, West San Francisco Bay, Joseph McAleese, Draco, Great South Bay, and Jay, western Long Island Sound.

At the finish line there was considerable scrambling Pimm sailed across the line between the committee boat and stake boat, with Nye taking his Gale across the line twice.

Following skipper soon got into the thick of the scramble too, which was occasioned by attempting to follow directions printed on the course memoranda. All protests were disallowed, however.

42nd Anniversary Of Mohican Market

The Mohican Market on John street will celebrate its 42nd anniversary by an "anniversary sale" during the week of September 17 to 24. Each year these anniversary sales are held with great success by Manager Emzie Trowbridge and during the week special anniversary offerings will be made.

The first Mohican market was located on Wall street in the building now occupied by the Flanagan store. After several years that building was destroyed by fire and the Mohican Market re-opened down street where the McCabe grill is now located. Increasing business made necessary the erection of the present store on John street opposite the public parking grounds in a building erected specially for the market.

Since the opening of the John street market the local Mohican store has handled a complete line of foods including dairy, pastry, vegetable, meat and grocery departments as well as sea foods. All Mohican bakery products are produced in the local bakery which is located on the upper floor of the market.

Sawdust Lovers Organize to Save the Circus in '39

Rain, Recession and Labor Grief Give Big Tops Worst Season.

DETROIT.—The combined forces of rain, business recession and labor troubles have given the circus business the worst drubbing in its history—but the big tops aren't out yet.

Veteran circus men and close observers predict the sawdust rings will be back "bigger and better" next year, if the business pickup continues and normal weather prevails. But just so everything won't be left to chance, an organization of circus fans has mapped out a nationwide program to "keep the circus from going the way of the small-town opera house" — and vaudeville, too.

Ringling First to Fold.

The Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus first ruptured the "show must go on" tradition, when, beset by labor troubles and dwindling receipts, it packed up at Scranton, Pa., early in the season and moved into winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

The Downie Brothers circus, owned by Charles Sparks, closed in Delaware in mid-summer.

When the Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty circus pulled stakes at the height of the season and headed for winter quarters at Rochester, Ind., it became the third major "big top" to fold this year.

Misfortune also overtook the little shows. The Sells-Sterling circus, a motorized show well known in the Middle West, closed at Sheboygan, Wis. Two smaller shows folded up in the East.

Circus lovers, however, aren't taking this sitting down. At Madison, Wis., the Circus Fans Association of America assigned a subcommittee to work out a plan for preserving an "institution typically American." Co-operating with the association, groups of advertising men have banded behind the leadership of Frank W. Magin of Detroit in a "save the circus" movement.

Collecting Driftwood This Man's Unique Hobby

RANGELEY LAKES, MAINE.—Collecting driftwood and fallen limbs and stumps that resemble animals in shape is the unique hobby of Harry F. Allen, brother of former Gov. Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts.

These pieces of wood have been fashioned into their strange shapes by the forces of nature—the waves, the rains, the blasts of winter, and the withering rays of the summer sun.

As one approaches Allen's cottage he is greeted by an alligator poking its head over a boulder. The alligator is of wood. On the piazza, a fine buck deer of wood can be seen.

Inside, other wooden images include a reptile with what appears to be the leg of another animal in its mouth. Some clever touches of paint on some of the specimens make them more life-like.

On one wall there is a strange looking creature which a small card informs is the Gyasticulus or Cave Canis. "Lives on fish or trouser seats. Dangerous when angered," the sign reads.

In other parts of the room there are a seal with a metal ring around its neck, a lizard on a mantelpiece, an eagle above a doorway, a Rocky mountain goat, chin whiskers and all.

Floating Post Office for Sailors on Great Lakes

DETROIT.—The federal government's only "floating post office" has started its forty-third year of service on the Great Lakes. This sea-going postal substation is a mail boat equipped to give all the services of a land post office to crew members and passengers of boats cruising the lakes. It has a postal savings department, can cash or issue money orders, and maintains a parcel post department.

For men who ply between ports all summer, it functions as the only tie between them and their wives and families. Many sailors find its parcel post service a happy solution to the laundry problem. This seaman's substation handles about 2,000,000 pieces of mail a season.

Grape Vine Grows Peaches in Bunches

WELLINGTON, OHIO.—A wild grape vine that grows peaches in bunches has been discovered by John Hilliker, music store proprietor here.

The clusters of the strange fruit look exactly like bunches of grapes except that the fruit is covered with the usual peach fuzz and is not as nearly spherical as the grape. The bunches of peaches are much larger than bunches of grapes which are growing on the same vine.

The center of the peach is hard and contains what appears to be a developing peach stone. The grape vine which bears the hybrids spans a scrawny-looking peach tree and Hilliker believes this made cross pollination possible.

The 80-foot high statue "Pacifica," for which a three-foot model and later a 12-foot working model were created, will be poured in plaster on Treasure Island for installation at the World's Fair of the West, being too large to make in sections in San Francisco and haul to the mid-bay island site of the 1939 Exposition.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Some of the final results have just been received from the superintendent in charge of the New York State Boys and Girls Department

This is the first year that a General Livestock Judging team has been entered from Ulster county at the State Fair competition. Roger Boice of Lake Katrine, John Schrieber and DuBois Jenkins of New Paltz represented Ulster county placing 17th in competition with 28 other counties. The result of the Dairy Judging Team composed of Lewis Boice of Lake Katrine, Murray Jenkins of New Paltz and Gerald DuBois of New Paltz, has not been received due to the fact that the field is large and over 40 counties participated in this judging. However, the Dairy Demonstration Team composed of Martin Jansen and Charles Schrieber of New Paltz, who gave the "Construction of a Safety Bull Pen" placed Ulster county sixth with 12 other counties participating.

In the Vegetable Gardening department the team comprised of William Morehouse and Myron Boice of Lake Katrine and Tracy Hommel of Blue Mountain received fifth award in a contest with 25 other counties and William Morehouse of Lake Katrine stood fourth high with a score of 269.375 out of a possible 300 of 73 contestants. He also was second in the Grading of Potatoes with a score of 97.375 out of a possible 100; and tied for fourth place for judging with a Jefferson county boy with a score of 82 per cent out of a possible 100. Bill as he is known to his friends, is the first alternate on the New York State Vegetable Judging team which will compete with other states of the nation at Chicago this November. Competition was especially keen in the Vegetable department and the Ulster county team was but 22.375 points behind the high scoring team which was Jefferson county.

The garden demonstration team demonstrated the "Need for the Care in Growing Young Plants," was ably handled by William Morehouse and Myron Boice, Jr., of Lake Katrine and were accorded a red ribbon for their work. This team received only a ribbon.

In the homemaking department we had equally as great honors accorded to our county when Helen Koniuk of Flatbush and Marion Werner of Mt. Marion each received a green ribbon in the New York State Style Revue. Sixty-six girls took part in this and it was the opinion of the judges that the past year's dressmaking program had brought to Syracuse dresses, suits and ensembles very difficult to judge and it is the first time in the history of the New York State Style Revue that each girl received a ribbon for her work. Both Helen and Marion are 14 years of age and their dresses and modeling competed against girls 19 and 20 years of age and who have taken part in the style revues previously. It is a very good beginning for these two girls.

The Ulster county representatives of club work were Roger Boice of Lake Katrine and Flora Jane Allen of Lomontville. These two young people were the guests of the New York State Fair for one continuous week-end. The program and activities were educational as well as filled with 4-H inspirations.

Over the period of two weeks, 14 of the 4-H club members took part in the New York State Fair program with the county club agent.

Soura, Band Leader, Is Airplane Demonstrator

George Soura, well known local aviator and orchestra leader, has been selected by the Cub Airplane Corp., to do its demonstrating throughout the United States from coast to coast, it was announced today.

Soura was given the position because of his flying ability, it was said. He was a student of Holger Horriss, trans-Atlantic flyer. The airplane corporation will also sponsor the orchestra led by Soura.

The band will go on tour under the name of George Soura and his Silver Cub Radio orchestra. As far as known, Soura is the first baton wielder to demonstrate and advertise airplanes. He will give his first demonstration in Kingston on September 28.

Mystery Clouds General's Status

Berlin, Sept. 15 (AP)—The status of General Ludwig Beck, chief of the general staff of the German army, was clouded in mystery today.

For weeks there have been rumors that he no longer retained his pivotal place in the German defense force. Official circles, however, deny this vigorously.

To this unofficial sources which heretofore usually have been right reply that Beck has accepted an appointment "on a special mission in the west."

These sources insist that Beck has disagreed with other chiefs on policy with reference to Czechoslovakia.

The same sources assert that Lieutenant General Franz Halder is acting chief of the general staff.

Objects of art from Japan, dating back to 580 A. D., are among pre-Buddhist primitive work in the fabulously valuable Pacific Cultures art show to be displayed at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

Says Youth Must Work For Peace

Clinton, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP).—Hamilton College's new president, Dr. William H. Cowley, placed the burden of preventing future wars today squarely upon the shoulders of youth.

In his first address to Hamilton College students since he succeeded Dr. Frederick C. Ferry earlier this year, Dr. Cowley told them "if future wars are to be prevented, you must prevent them."

He spoke at the opening day convocation at the college.

"In brief," he emphasized, "in peaceful Hamilton College you must begin to prepare for responsibilities as great as those faced by any generation in history."

Comparing college students' lives in this country to the state-regulated lives of those in Germany, Italy, Japan, Russia and "even in England," Dr. Cowley said:

"In no other country of the world is such a large proportion of the youthful population privliged to live in relative leisure preparing, presumably, for a large contribution to society in years to come."

Dr. Cowley spoke of the war scare abroad and declared that "you are all too young to know anything about the power of war making propaganda, but we who have lived through those days know that if a major war breaks out in Europe, America will immediately find itself barraged by such subtle, such convincing propaganda that it will be next to impossible for us to stay out of the war."

Bermuda, Discovered in 1515, Old English Colony

Bermuda, only 660 nautical miles from New York, was discovered in 1515 by a Spaniard, Juan de Bermudez, who anchored his ship, La Garza, within gunshot of the more than 160 islands. Historians say that Bermudez may have discovered the islands on a previous visit, for they appear on a map published by Peter Martyr in 1511. Bermudez was carrying home to Spain Gonzales Ferdinando d'Oviedo, a distinguished historian, who wrote a brief account of his visit, the earliest known description written of Bermuda.

Admiral Sir George Somers, who was wrecked on the islands with his Sea Venture, landed with 140 men and women on the shores of what is now called St. George's, the first capital of Bermuda. His trials and tribulations went on until he died in 1610. His heart is buried in St. George, but his body was taken back to England.

The history of the colonization of Bermuda includes in its early days—the Virginia company, that figured prominently in the settlement saga of the islands, and in 1782 William Browne of Salem, Mass., arrived to fill the governor's chair for a term which lasted six years.

One of Browne's first acts was to declare the whale fishery free to all. Hitherto whales had been considered "royal fishes" and as fishery could only be conducted under licenses, fees for which were paid to the governor—the people had practically ceased to engage in it.

Nathanael Greene Proved Himself a Great General

Gen. Nathanael Greene, born in 1742 in Rhode Island of Quaker parents, rejected the strict principles of that sect, became a soldier and commanded the American forces in the South during the Revolutionary war, recalls Leslie Hartley in the Washington Star.

Greene proved himself a great general when Washington placed him in command of the southern troops. By successful military maneuvers against the British in 1781 he won the battle of Eutaw Springs, a decisive conflict in South Carolina. In little more than a year he had Georgia and the Carolinas free of British control.

In appreciation of his services at Eutaw Springs, congress presented him with a medal and the two Carolinas and Georgia made him valuable grants of property. Also congress later voted to "raise a monument at the seat of government" in his honor, a monument which was not erected until 90 years later. Another monument dedicated jointly to General Greene and Count Pulaski stands in a public square in Savannah, Ga.

In 1785 Greene moved to the plantation of Mulberry Grove on the Savannah river, where he lived until, at the age of 44, he died of a sunstroke.

History of South Sea island voyagers who crossed thousands of miles of the Pacific Ocean in canoes and small craft will be told as part of the re-enactment of the colorful history of the Pacific Basin at the 1939 World's Fair of the West.
